Nazis Launch Land, Air Blitz on Sevastopol

SWEDES ACTIVE IN WAR EFFORT ON ALL FRONTS

Thousands Join in Victory Drive.

This is the seventh in a series of articles on win-the-war activities of groups o foreign birth or extraction in the Chicago area.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Americans of Swedish origin compose one of the most zealous groups aiding in the prosecution of the war. No other so-called foreign language group, however, is more thoroly Americanized and assimilated and this makes it difficult to give them full credit for all their patriotic activities.

Lieut. Col. Ole Reistad.

Enlistments of Chicagoans of Swedish stock before Pearl Harbor were at a high rate. The army, navy, and air forces always have had many. Altho Swedish leaders say it is impossible to estimate the number now in the armed services, they believe it is as large as in other wars. In discussing the service record Charles S. Peterson, former city treasurer, one of the prominent leaders, dwelt on statistics of World War I.

War Records Cited.

"In the first World war," he said, "Swedish-Americans composed ½ of 1 per cent of the people in the United States, but about 2 per cent in America's armed forces had Swedish names, and these men sustained more than a proportionate percentage of the casualties."

All the many Swedish societies and clubs are reported energetically supporting win-the-war endeavors. The churches are active in all forms of war enterprises from war bond sales to collection of books and magazines for the camps.

Chicagoland Swedes have purchased or signed up for many millions of war bonds, but no one can fairly estimate the total because most bonds are being bought by individuals at banks or other places or thru pay roll deductions. Many are block captains and district chairmen in civilian defense.

Buy Planes for Norwegians.

One activity of Chicago's Swedish population is its aid in the Swedish-American drive for "Wings for Norway." This is a nation-wide move to raise $300,000 to buy 27 training planes for Norwegian flyers training in a Canadian camp. Carl Sandburg, poet and biographer of Lincoln, is national chairman. Mr. Peterson is Chicago chairman.

Sweden is neutral and supporting an army of 600,000. Norway is under Nazi occupation. The view is that the drive not only will help Scandinavia, but also assist in America's war effort.

"The effect of this Swedish-Norwegian solidarity here in the United States will be a tremendous boost to morale in Norway," says Mr. Peterson.

Swedish-Americans contributing to the plane fund were hailed for their expressions of friendship recently by Lieut. Col. Ole Reistad, commander of the Norwegian royal air force, who came down from the Canadian training camp to address a Chicago rally. He escaped from Norway in a rowboat and has trained 1,000 Norwegian flyers now in the RAF of Britain.

Tells of Swedish Gratitude.

"The Swedes at home," he said, "can do little to show the Norwegians how they feel for them in their op-

REPORT HITLER CALLS HIS SATELLITES TO CONFERENCE IN VIENNA

LONDON, June 7 (AP).—Advices from the continent said tonight that Hitler had summoned representatives of Nazi satellite states to meet soon in an important conference at Vienna. Informed quarters predicted the Fuehrer planned to draw on these countries for 2,000,000 soldiers and 3,000,000 workmen.

IT'S A WOMEN'S WAR, TOO, WAAC APPLICANTS SAY

BY ROBERT CROMIE.

Three hundred and twenty-two young women were happy yesterday. Two hundred and thirty were sad. And three hundred more were on pins and needles.

Members of the first group were notified they had passed their mental alertness tests and still are in the running for places in the first officers' training school for the women's auxiliary army corps, which will open next July 20 in Des Moines. The second group failed. The third just completed their tests and won't know how they came out until today.

Miss Jeanne Reilley, a 24 year old machinist in a Rockford defense plant, was ashamed of herself. She has a brother and two cousins who are noncommissioned officers in the army and had just learned that she failed. Miss Reilley said she drove in from Rockford Friday night with still another cousin [she has 18 in all, two of them named Billy] in his truck with two other girls. She took the test Saturday after two hours' sleep and thinks maybe that had something to do with her flunking it.

She'll Join as a Private.

"Now I'll have to join in September as a buck private," she said with a grin. "It was a simple test, that's what makes me so mad. I answered 128 of the 150 questions. Do you think maybe I was too smart? I understand they don't want you too smart or too dumb."

Just then the candidates taking the same test in the Wells High school lunchroom, 924 North Ashland avenue, finished their hour examination and Miss Reilley hurried off to find her friend, Miss Eleanor Smith, 21, a drill press operator in Rockford.

Miss Lucille Burgess, 22, of 63 East 100th street, a dictaphone operator, was asked why she is trying to become an officer in the women's army.

"I think women should share in the war effort," she said, "I work in a defense industry now, but I feel I have something more to offer. As far as hard work is concerned, they'll never faze me that way. And I think the more competition there is the better the army will be."

Teacher Gives Her Views.

Miss Mary Mosey, 25, of 904 Oakton street, Evanston, a school teacher in the North Carolina mountains, said she thinks women should be used to free men for combat duty and that her teaching experience should be valuable to her.

Miss Marie Wehrle, 30, of 1214 Astor street, an auditor for the Federal Crop Insurance corporation, said she considers the war "every American's war" and that she thinks her job could well be filled by some one unable to perform actual military service. "I feel I'm physically—and I hope mentally—capable," she added.

A woman in her mid-thirties who said she does office work, but refused to give her name explained:

"This is the first time I ever did anything cockeyed in my life or have kicked over the traces. But, by George, I'm a thorogoing American and when there's a job to be done I want to do whatever I can. I'll be the first of my family in the army since the War of 1812. I'm a D. A. R., too."

Physical tests and interviews still face the successful candidates, according to Lieut. Col. Edward F. Shaifer, registration and induction officer.

Future Bleak for Soles of Sheriff's Cops

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Gas rationing was put into effect yesterday for Sheriff Thomas J. O'Brien's county highway police—because the sheriff can't buy any more gas for them. The county's credit has run out, O'Brien's cops reported, and the sad news has been imparted to them that they had better visit a cobbling shop for the good of their soles.

The sheriff recently was permitted to add 100 policemen to his county staff because of the war, it was explained, and soon the county was the titular owner of 10 nice new and big and shiny automobiles for the highway cops.

But now—no gasoline!

Won't Pay Sheriff's Gas Bill.

"That's right, I won't pay the gas bill of the sheriff's police," said County Treasurer John Toman yesterday.

"I won't pay it because the county hasn't the money in the bank and it won't be long before the county is out of other things besides gas.

"I warned the county board three years ago it was heading for the rocks. Now the county is on the rocks.

"I haven't paid any county bills since November, except a few emergencies. Let the sheriff worry about where and how he is going to get gas. I have worries of my own."

The sheriff raised many thousands of dollars, presumably, thru sales by his deputies of tickets for a benefit dance in the Morrison hotel at which a few of the ticket purchasers appeared, it was recalled yesterday. But it was reported none of the proceeds went for the benefit of the employés or for gas.

Owes Oil Company $10,000.

The sheriff's office was said to owe the Sinclair company more than $10,000 for gas. The highway cops were warned three days ago that "no money, no gas" and somehow or other a few dollars were scraped together for a payment intended to keep the gasoline flowing. But that payment, too, had been burned up by yesterday.

"The county can't spend what it doesn't have, because I won't let it," explained the treasurer. "I won't take money out of any of the trust funds to pay debts. When the county board estimated that $7,900,000 would be collected in taxes last year I told the commissioners they were crazy.

"I collected $5,200,000. The board has been figuring on spending what is collected in penalties. The penalties are now 50 per cent less than they were last year.

"The county had better hurry and get in some money on foreclosures or they'll be all messed up. The federal courts have prevented us from collecting taxes on many large loop buildings and hotels that are under government receivership.

"But anyway the county can't spend more than it can collect. I won't let it."

BABY SNATCHED FROM CARRIAGE AND TOSSED INTO POND; DROWNS

LONDON, June 7. — While being taken for an airing in his baby carriage by his mother today, the three-month-old grandson of Vice Adm. Arthur Craig Waller was snatched by an unidentified man who flung the infant into a nearby lake at Burwood park, Walton-on-the-Thames, and fled.

The baby drowned within a few minutes. The body was recovered by a man who heard the mother's screams. The baby's father, Craig Waller, is on active duty at sea with the navy. Scotland Yard detectives joined local police in the hunt for the criminal.

Vice Adm. Waller is a veteran of the Battle of Jutland and is deputy lieutenant of County Meath. He retired in 1922.

State Senator, Friend Drown Near Danville

Danville, Ill., June 7 [Special].—State Sen. John M. Speakman, 42 years old, and Robert Edwards, Vermillion county probate clerk, were drowned today when they tried to swim 60 yards to shore from an overturned outboard motorboat in a small lake near here.

Sen. J. M. Speakman.

E. C. Hewes, publisher of the Danville Commercial-News, was in the boat when it capsized. Unable to swim, he clung to the side of the boat and was rescued by Paul Millikin, a neighbor, who rowed out to the overturned boat.

Wives Were Near By.

Speakman and Edwards and their wives were guests at Hewes' cottage on Incline pond near Kickapoo state park. The three men went for a ride in Hewes' small outboard motor boat. They had gone only a short distance when the craft shipped water and overturned.

When their shouts for help failed to bring immediate response, Speakman and Edwards, both good swimmers, decided to swim to shore. Both, apparently weighted down by their clothes, sank after swimming a short distance. The bodies were recovered a few hours later.

The lake, about a third of a mile long, 400 feet wide and 30 feet deep, is one of several in the vicinity leased by the Pollywogs association, a sportsmen's group, for fishing. Several summer cottages are situated along the shores.

In Assembly Two Terms.

Speakman was a Republican and served two terms in the Illinois assembly prior to his election to a four year senate term in 1940.

In September, 1941, Speakman was elected president of the strip mining investigation commission created by the legislature. He was formerly an assistant United States attorney for the eastern district of Illinois.

Edwards, 35 years old, was renominated on the Republican ticket for a new term as probate clerk. Both men were married and were without children.

REDS HOLD FIRM IN 3 DAY BATTLE AT CRIMEA PORT

Artillery Smashes Infantry Drive.

MOSCOW, June 8 [Monday]—(AP).—The Germans have launched a mighty land and air assault upon Sevastopol, Black sea naval base and last soviet stronghold in the Crimea, but the Russians announced today their forces were holding firm after three days of battering.

The big naval base has been under siege since last October, and after the fall of the Kerch peninsula to the Nazis last month remained the last soviet held Crimean bastion.

The midnight communique telling of the fighting about besieged Sevastopol mentioned only land action, but earlier reports said the Nazis were throwing droves of planes into the assault.

38 Planes Destroyed.

In three days, front dispatches said, the luftwaffe lost 38 planes—21 in air battles over the city, 5 shot down by anti-aircraft, and 1 by the infantry, while 11 were burned in a Russian raid on a German airdrome.

The few bombers which have penetrated the defenses of the port, the dispatches said, have been forced to fly at great altitudes and to drop their bombs at random.

The new aerial assaults were compared with the attacks made by the Nazis in November and December. However, the main objectives—the aqueduct, the central telegraph office, and the electric power station—were said to be in good working order.

Crush 13 Trucks.

The Red army's aviation and artillery, meanwhile, pounded the German land forces around the beleaguered city. Soviet guns crushed 13 enemy truckloads of infantry and other objectives, dispatches said, while planes harassed motorized columns.

In a week of blazing aerial warfare, 528 German planes were destroyed as against a Russian loss of 151, the midnight communique said.

[The Germans, claiming air superiority over the eastern front, broadcast a report that in the last week the Russians lost 257 planes to only 26 German craft.]

At the northern extremity of the front, where the Nazis have been trying to bomb Murmansk and cut soviet Arctic sea communications and the supply line from Britain and the United States, fierce new air battles were reported raging.

U. S. Jeeps in Moscow.

Dispatches said the Red air force had destroyed 43 enemy planes and damaged from 17 to 20 in raids on enemy airdromes. The Germans were reported to have lost another six planes in an attempted bombing in weather so unfavorable that only a few planes got thru and dropped their bombs on wasteland.

In the meantime passengers and supplies continued to reach Moscow from the north. American vehicles, ranging from "jeeps" to heavy trucks, have became a common sight in the streets of the capital.

Activity on the long front between Murmansk and the Crimea was marked yesterday by increased reconnaissance on ground and in the air as both sides watched for signs of a fresh outbreak of major fighting.

A soviet communique said the Russians in two days of fighting on the Leningrad front had killed over 300 German officers and men, destroyed 5 machine gun installations, and 10 strongholds, while in another sector Russian artillery and trench mortar fire had repulsed German infantry.

"Attacks Repulsed"—Berlin.

BERLIN, June 7 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—The German high command communique said today:

"In the southern sector of the eastern front German Alpine troops and Hungarian detachments repulsed isolated enemy attacks. In the central and northern sectors, a ring around enemy hedgehogs [pillboxes] was tightened by concentric fire. Enemy counterattacks were repulsed in bloody fighting.

"On the Volkhov [Leningrad] front, the enemy repeated violent attacks at several points. They failed under the impact of our alert defense, supported by dive bombers, with heavy casualties."

WAR AT A GLANCE; BRIEF SUMMARY OF DEVELOPMENTS

Latest war developments:

China reported its troops battling strong Japanese forces within the walled city of Chuhsien, in Chekiang province, 120 miles from their invasion point in eastern China. A new Japanese drive was under way in Kiangsi province.

British forces in Libya have smashed two of the biggest tank thrusts the Germans have yet made, they reported, and sent the enemy reeling back thru a gap south of Tobruk.

U-Boat Base Bombed.

Emden, Germany's naval and submarine base, was bombed by hundreds of British planes, one objective being a U-boat factory.

Heavy German air and land assaults on Sevastopol, last Russian stronghold in the Crimea, were reported by Moscow, but the Red forces were said to be holding the enemy after three days of fierce fighting. The Russians claimed they destroyed 528 Nazi planes against 151 soviet losses in the last week.

Sydney Shelled from Sea.

Shelling of Sydney and Newcastle, on Australia's southeast coast, was reported from allied headquarters. Reports said the shells came from submarines.

The Pacific fleet commander announced additional damage to two Japanese cruisers and an enemy destroyer sunk. An American destroyer was lost but most of the personnel saved. American forces have lost contact with the fleeing Japanese.

Sydney Shelled in First Sea Raid by Japs

Hails Midway Victory

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, June 8 [Monday]—(AP).—Gen. MacArthur sent congratulations today to Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, United States Pacific fleet commander, "for the splendid victory at Midway which has aroused the greatest enthusiasm thruout this area."

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, June 8 [Monday]—(AP).—Sydney and Newcastle, on Australia's southeast coast, were shelled last night in the first attacks on the Australian mainland from the sea since the war began.

Newcastle, some 80 miles north of Sydney, was under attack for 30 minutes. The length of the Sydney shelling was not disclosed here. First reports said the shells came from submarines.

Both cities were blacked out and an official announcement said there was no military damage and few casualties.

Call It Nuisance Raid.

The shells whistled over Sydney so fast that no estimate was obtained as to the number fired. One account said the attack there lasted 15 minutes.

Gen. MacArthur's headquarters marked this latest submarine foray as a nuisance raid.

Four Submarines Destroyed.

The attack followed by one week a submarine sortie into Sydney harbor in which four of the enemy's midget raiders were destroyed. Their net damage was destruction of a worn out ferry boat.

Three and possibly four more Japanese submarines were destroyed in the southwest Pacific last week.

Allied bombers made two raids on the Island of Timor on Saturday, scoring direct hits on a bridge and barracks buildings, it was announced.

Enemy submarine operations off the lower Australian coast apparently were aimed at severing allied communications as well as an attempted diversion for the major naval clash raging from Alaska to Hawaii.

NEW DAMAGE IS INFLICTED ON 2 ENEMY CRUISERS

U. S. Destroyer Lost; Save Most of Crew.

PEARL HARBOR, T. H., June 7 (AP).—The battle of the Pacific appeared terminated tonight with the enemy withdrawing and additional damage being inflicted on two cruisers, a communique from Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, commander of the Pacific fleet, said tonight.

Contact with the enemy was lost last night, he said. But this did not mean that pursuit had been abandoned.

The text of the communique:

"The enemy appears to be withdrawing. Contact was lost during last night. Additional damage was inflicted on two enemy cruisers. Until all reports can be checked it is impossible to state whether these cruisers were in addition to those reported in a previous communique or whether they were damaged cruisers included in previous reports.

"One enemy destroyer was sunk. One United States destroyer was sunk by a submarine, but nearby ships rescued the personnel with small loss of life.

First American Loss.

The mention of the loss of a United States destroyer was the first report of the sinking of an American warship in the battle. It also was the first mention of a Japanese destroyer being lost in the engagement.

Adm. Nimitz, who had claimed "a momentous victory was in the making" in the battle of Midway Island, earlier had reported the sinking of two and perhaps three Japanese aircraft carriers; three battleships damaged, at least one badly; four cruisers damaged, two heavily, and three transports damaged.

Most of Aircraft Gone.

The earlier report also added that all the planes on the two definitely sunken Jap carriers were lost; that one or two other enemy carriers were damaged, and most of their aircraft gone. Some of the damaged Japanese warships were reported so thoroly damaged that they may not be able to reach their bases.

Nimitz previously had reported one American aircraft carrier had been hit and that some planes had been lost. He said casualties among his personnel were light.

Adm. Nimitz' communique indicated that the United States navy and flyers dealt fire and steel to the remnants of a powerful Japanese force from the opening attack on Midway on Thursday until contact was lost last night.

MAY DECIDE WAR'S COURSE

BY JOHN FISHER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 7.—Adm. Ernest J. King declared today that the naval battle which raged around Midway Island may determine the outcome of the war in the Pacific.

Naval operations extending from Hawaii to the Aleutian Islands are still in progress and American losses so far are "relatively inconsiderable," Adm. King said. He spoke at his first press conference since appointment as commander in chief of the United States fleet last Dec. 20, shortly after the Pearl Harbor disaster, which took place exactly six months ago today.

Hawaii "Must Be Held."

Hawaii "must be held at all costs" because it is the keystone to the entire Pacific defense system, Adm. King said, stating that the Japanese obviously had intended to occupy Midway, vital outpost in the Hawaiian defenses and 1,312 miles from Pearl Harbor.

Altho Adm. King did not describe American and Japanese losses in the Midway battle, he said it was obvious that the heavy Japanese losses mentioned in Adm. Nimitz's communiques naturally had weakened them for offensive action.

Asked whether the Japanese had thrown everything into the battle, Adm. King replied:

"Perhaps not everything, but the bulk of it. One of their methods of doing things is not sending a boy to do a man's job."

Adm. King declined to say specifically that the Japanese have been "defeated" in the battle that resulted from the attack on Midway. "I wouldn't say they have been defeated yet. They have withdrawn."

Intimating that the American naval forces would not pursue the retiring Japanese fleet too close to Japan, King said "they still have a great deal of shore based air power [on their islands of the mid-Pacific] as they found we had in the Coral sea action and at Midway. For us to attempt to rush in with a mop up action might not be well advised."

The situation at Dutch Harbor, where the Japanese attacked last Wednesday, remains obscure, Adm. King said, partly because of extremely bad weather. However, he emphasized that operations in that area of the Pacific are continuing with "contact intermittent." "We have none too clear a picture of what is going on . . . but it is going on," he said.

Prepared for Attack.

"We were prepared for the assault on Midway and recognized that Alaska also might be attacked," King said in informing reporters he was prepared to give them some of the "background" that led up to current operations.

"In the first place, after Brig. Gen. Doolittle's raid on Japan, Gen. Marshall [army chief of staff] and I both felt, knowing the Japanese psychology, that some reprisal in kind was inevitable in order that they might 'save face.' Secretary of War Stimson, knowing the Japanese, has also emphasized this point," Adm. King said.

"The Coral sea action, which was another decisive set-back to the Japanese, was an additional reason to be on guard. The details of the Coral sea action have not as yet been made public, but you will shortly be in possession of all the essential facts.

Lost Touch with Jap Forces.

"After the Coral sea action [ending about May 8] we lost touch with the heavy Japanese forces engaged. They disappeared beyond the radius of our immediate means of reconnaissance. But, as you know and as the Japanese know, we have considerable numbers of submarines sprinkled about the western Pacific, and they were able to give us a good deal of at least negative information.

"It was apparent shortly after the Coral sea action that the Japs would have to go somewhere and do something. Looking at the map, almost anybody could see that among our various important outposts, Dutch Harbor and Midway offered them the best chance of an action either in the nature of a raid or an invasion with some hope of success, or of a nature that in case of a reverse would allow them to retire without too great loss or complete annihilation. At the same time, we were fully aware that they might renew the actions in the Coral sea—even tho they had recently been 'stung' there.

Based on "Calculated Risk."

"So to this extent we were prepared for the assault upon Midway, and recognized that Alaska might also be attacked.

"You know in a general way of the line of communications we have to protect to Australia. But you probably do not realize the large forces that it takes to protect a line of that length. All of these several factors had to be evaluated. Decision to act had to be taken on the basis of 'calculated risk.'

"Midway has been greatly strengthened since the Pearl Harbor action. As the Japs now know, the radius of our effective air scouting from that island extends to a distance of at least 500 miles. What they do not know and what I do not propose to tell you is the actual limit of that aerial reconnaissance radius.

"Certainly if we had known exactly when and where and in what force the enemy intended to strike we might perhaps have afforded some diversions from our other vital areas of protection. But as the results will prove, I believe, we shall have nothing to apologize for in the present action. I cannot go into the details of our own forces that were engaged, or ready to be engaged. The Japanese probably do not exactly know them, but they have cause to know plenty.

"As to the release of military information in general, I wish to read to you certain paragraphs from a letter which I have recently written [the name of the addressee was not disclosed]:

"'I am fully aware of the desires of the news reel companies and other purveyors of information to acquaint the public in detail with news of action with the enemy at the earliest practicable date.

"'I am also fully aware that all too often, even inadvertently, the purveyors of information to the public are not prone to exercise any discrimination in regard to giving "aid and comfort" to the enemy. In this respect I feel very strongly that military considerations outweigh the satisfying of a very natural and proper curiosity.

"'I assume that you and your colleagues know that the piecing of information together—after the manner of a jig saw puzzle—is common military practice, which we ourselves carry out to the best of our ability. It is not necessary to complete the "jig saw puzzle" in order to gain vital information, but only to fit together a key part or parts thereof, in order to become possessed of important military information.

Still a Mystery to Japs.

"'Certain circumstances have prevailed during the last few weeks, particularly in regard to operations in the Pacific, which have made it advisable to withhold information from the public. There is now no reason why release should not be made of actions which took place prior to May 1 except as to how the planes which attacked Japan were enabled to reach Japan—this because we have every reason to believe that the Japanese do not yet know how it was done.

"'It appears that information relating to the so-called "battle of the Coral sea" can soon be released, perhaps during the coming week, depending upon certain developments related to the actions now going on to the westward of Midway Island.'"

In talking about the strength of the enemy's sea forces, Adm. King commented that all American naval construction now going on was merely bringing America's one-ocean navy up to full strength under the Washington treaty, and providing replacements for outmoded craft. The first vessels of the new two-ocean navy, he said, will only begin "to appear in the picture in about six months."

He said it would be two years before the bulk of the two-ocean navy is in service.

Against these facts stands the fact that Japan has been building her navy furiously for several years, King said, and at the start of the war undoubtedly had a much more powerful fleet than was provided for under the Washington treaty which set up a 5-5-3 ratio for the relative strengths of the navies of the United States, Great Britain, and Japan.

JAP SEA POWER BLUNTED, BUT STILL MIGHTY

Experts Say Midway Fight Proved Plane's Value.

Washington, D. C., June 7 (AP).—Japan has suffered a terrific defeat in the battle for mastery of the mid-Pacific, naval experts agreed today, and her striking power has been badly blunted, but she still has left great strength with which to attempt a comeback.

Losses suffered by the enemy, on the basis of reports to date, were said authoritatively to indicate that while the victory of American air and naval forces was undoubtedly complete the upset suffered by the Japs was somewhat short of disastrous.

This conclusion was based on the fact that statistics show that even in this greatest sea-air battle of the war—a battle which in some of its effects may be compared with Jutland in the World war—probably half of the enemy's fleet strength was not involved and must be carefully considered in all future allied operations.

Believe Fleet Still Large.

Prior to the start of the war the Japanese were reported to have ten battleships, eight aircraft carriers, and 46 cruisers. Experts now regard those figures as considerably short of the enemy's real prewar strength.

It is considered possible that one or two new battleships may have been completed since those estimates were made. Numerous aircraft carriers converted from merchant ships undoubtedly have been added to the fleet, and, under the absolute secrecy prevailing in Japan, cruiser strength probably was much greater than ever was reported here.

Including the most recent actions, the united nations have reported sinking one Japanese battleship and damaging five; sinking four or five aircraft carriers and damaging six or seven; and sinking 19 cruisers and damaging 45. The probability is that some of the vessels reported damaged early in the war have been repaired and restored to service.

Victory Not Clinched.

What the enemy's strength and loss figures mean when taken together is that he still has enough of a sea force either to attempt new offensive actions or to put up a strong resistance against any offensive undertaken by American and allied forces.

This, in the opinion of Washington experts, boils down to saying that while the mid-Pacific triumph has advanced the united nations far along the road to final victory it has by no means clinched that victory. Only successful offensive action by the united nations using the swelling flood of weapons now pouring out of the arsenals of America can do that.

Possibly the most important of those weapons, many authorities now agree, is the long range bomber. And in this respect, they said, the repulse of the enemy at Midway Island has produced a valuable lesson for the future.

This lesson is that the striking force of naval war craft is of little value unless protected by aerial superiority when operating in enemy territory. As nearly as can be determined here, it was the failure of the Japanese to gain that superiority at Midway which brought about their defeat.

Prepared for Assault.

On the basis of what Adm. Chester W. Nimitz has reported about the enemy's losses and the composition of his force, experts here concluded that the Japanese plan was, first, to bomb and smash the air force based on Midway, and second, to prepare the way for a landing by bringing up the battleships, which would then be safe from air attack, and having them destroy shore installations with their long range guns.

But the Pacific fleet generally and the Midway garrison specifically were prepared for just such an assault. Their own air attacking power turned the Japanese hopes into bitter defeat.

The general conclusion to be drawn from this, in the opinion of strategists here, is that under the same circumstances, the same results might have been achieved regardless of the identity of the opposing sides. Thus if and when the United States begins offensively to mop up Japan's own island outposts in the Pacific it must be prepared not only to strike hard with its surface vessels but also to give those vessels overwhelming protection from the air.

BRITISH SEE JAPAN'S MOMENTUM LOST IN MIDWAY SEA BATTLE

LONDON, June 7 (AP).—The United States' Midway victory in what appears to be the greatest combined sea-air battle ever fought is saluted by the British as indisputable evidence that Japan has lost offensive momentum. Qualified critics today stressed these conclusions from what they know of the engagement:

1. The United States navy has profited to the fullest from the lessons Britain had to learn the hard way—that warships rule the waves only when their own planes rule the skies above them.

2. The most determined Japanese effort since Pearl Harbor to cut the united nations' trans-Pacific supply lines has been crushed.

3. The increasing toll of Japanese fighting ships, especially carriers, as well as transports, is sapping the sea power that Tokio must have if she expects to patrol the western Pacific and extend her conquests either south, west or north.

These experts are eagerly awaiting the full story of how the United States wrought such terrific losses at what appears to be amazingly light cost for herself.

Former AP Correspondent Made Aide to MacArthur

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, June 8 [Monday]—(AP).—Lieut. Col. Lloyd Lehrbas, former foreign correspondent of the Associated Press, has been appointed aide-de-camp to Gen. Douglas MacArthur, it was announced today. Lehrbas obtained a leave of absence from the Associated Press bureau in Washington, D. C., after Pearl Harbor and went to Australia to join Gen. MacArthur as press officer on his arrival there from Bataan. Lehrbas was an air force officer in the last war.

Tiny New Soviet Land Mine Reported Deadly

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, June 7.—A new type of soviet "miniature landmine," not larger than a fist, is said to have claimed many victims among Col. Gen. Edward Dietl's troops on the Finnish front. The mine, planted beneath moss, is undetectable because it is encased in ebonite and does not react to magnetic finders.

F. D. R. ENVISIONS POLICING WORLD AFTER WAR ENDS

Long Occupation of Enemy Lands Planned.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 7.—The Roosevelt administration has well advanced plans for the peace settlement after the end of the war.

Here in outline is the administration peace program:

1. Prosecution of the war to capitulation by Germany, Italy, and Japan.
2. Establishment of an armistice to endure for several years before the formulation of the peace treaty is attempted.
3. Occupation and disarmament of the defeated countries by the armed forces of the united nations.
4. Relief of the destitute of the enemy countries and enemy occupied countries.

World Police Planned.

5. Creation of an international police power by the united nations to maintain order thruout the world pending the establishment of a permanent system of security.
6. Erection of a world state or federation of nations provided with armed forces to police the world.
7. Liberation of subject peoples thruout the world.
8. Freedom of access by all peoples to raw materials.
9. Removal of tariff and other trade barriers to the establishment of a free world economy.

Disarmament First View.

The administration peace planners hold to the view that one of the big mistakes after the World war was the attempt to carry out in the peace settlement many undertakings that ought to have been completed during the armistice. Hence, it is proposed that no attempt shall be made to write the peace treaty this time until the disarmament of the conquered nations shall be effected.

The disarmament procedure will require the occupation of the defeated countries by armies of the united nations for several years. The United States, instead of demobilizing completely within a few months, as it did after the World war, will retain possibly a million men under arms until the disarmament is completed and even thereafter will maintain enormous land, sea, and air forces for world police duties.

U. S. to Bear Main Burden.

While disarmament of the conquered is proceeding, the united nations will be extending relief to the suffering in the defeated countries and those regions overrun by the enemy. The principal burden of relief will be borne by the United States.

The relief plans are the special province of Vice President Wallace and Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard. An expenditure of several billion dollars a year may be required of the United States.

The international police power to maintain order in the world will be composed chiefly of American and British armed forces which at the end of the war will completely dominate the globe. The Anglo-American alliance will be relied upon to maintain peace indefinitely and its armed forces are to be the backbone of the enforcement agency of any world state or league of nations that may be set up.

Disclosed in Addresses.

Vice President Wallace and Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles have disclosed in recent public addresses the administration peace plan, including the liberation of subject peoples, who are to become the wards of the world state or league of nations. The Philippines are to be given their independence, possibly before the stipulated 1946, if the war ends earlier. India, Burma, and Malaya are to be freed from British rule, Indo-China and African colonies from France, and the East Indies from the Netherlands, according to the prospectus.

"Our victory," said Mr. Welles, "must bring in its train the liberation of all peoples. Discrimination between peoples because of their race, creed, or color must be abolished."

The administration has been challenged to tell whether this means the United States will be asked to repeal its exclusion law and lift the bars on immigration of Japanese and Chinese and whether it will seek to abolish discriminations against Negroes in southern states.

'ONLY BEGINNING' OF HEAVY RAIDS, BRITON DECLARES

Lyttelton Hints Nazis Will Suffer More.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 7.—"This is only the beginning," said Capt. Oliver Lyttelton, British minister of production and member of the war cabinet, today of the heavy bombing attacks on Germany.

"They haven't seen anything like the worst of it yet," he added confidently, observing that the United States air forces have not yet joined the attack on Nazi occupied Europe.

Lyttelton's remarks were made at a press conference, marking the occasion of the first six months of American participation in the war. He has been here for conferences with President Roosevelt, War Production Chief Donald M. Nelson, and other officials in connection with coördination of American and British war production.

No Question of Equipment.

The British minister declared that there is no question of sufficient aircraft production to sustain the heavy and highly damaging raids against Germany but the only question is "how much bigger they're going to get."

Lyttelton said he found American war production humming and could foresee no limit to military production in this country, altho England possibly will reach its peak within the next six months because of limits on capacity and workers available. Twenty-two million out of England's thirty-three million available workers of both sexes between 14 and 65 years of age are now fully employed either in the armed forces, war production, or civilian industries. This includes all part time employés.

"There isn't any peak in the United States on military production," Lyttelton declared as a result of his observations here of war production plants. "I was not only impressed with the tremendous volume of weapons of war now coming off the production lines but also the singleness of purpose. There was no private interest as far as I could see.

Allies Irresistible.

"My confidence about the outcome of the war has become a conviction of how irresistible are the forces against the axis. I think if we could have taken Hitler and Goering along [on the inspection trip] the war wouldn't last long. They either would throw up their hands or cut their throats—preferably the latter."

Lyttelton said that the United States and Britain are trying to integrate the two production programs to produce the maximum effort in the shortest time. He said he could not answer a question as to whether war production has reached the point to sustain an invasion of the continent now or soon.

Seek to Conserve Shipping.

"There are too many factors involved, for instance, the shipping situation," he commented.

Efforts are being made to conserve shipping by lessening demands for it. Two remedies he mentioned are to produce in England some of the war products now manufactured in the United States, and to standardize certain weapons so that parts might be interchangeable. Britain is leaning most heavily upon American production for raw materials and certain components of war production, he said without further elaboration. He said that he intends to return to England soon.

1,500 See Ceremony

Before 1,500 spectators, nearly 100 cadets of the Morgan Park Military academy were honored in various ways yesterday afternoon at the annual Awards parade held in Abells' field, 111th street and Hoyne avenue. Three cadets received Chicago Tribune ROTC medals. They were Cadet First Sergeant George Solbrig, 10050 Seeley avenue, who was awarded the gold medal; Cadet Corporal Frank Major, 2600 Wilson avenue, who won the silver medal, and Cadet Private Lauris M. Eek, Maryville, Mo., the bronze medal. Philip Maxwell of THE TRIBUNE made the awards.

Col. W. A. Howland, professor of military science and tactics, announced that Morgan Park academy had again been selected as an honor military school as a result of an inspection by a federal board.

Among other cadets who received recognition were seven who were notified that they would be appointed second lieutenants, infantry, in the Army of the United States. They will go on active duty June 15, the day after they receive their diplomas. They are Fred S. Booth, 10034 South Hoyne avenue; Robert J. Drda, 1438 Belle Plaine avenue; Grant H. Fenn, 10616 Longwood drive; Ralph W. Gilbert, 10101 South Morgan street; Augustus P. Heinze, 11664 Longwood drive; Edward M. Bittner, 9155 Pleasant avenue, and Robert F. Goss, 7829 South Winchester avenue.

FRIENDS URGE CONGRESS SEAT FOR MRS. LUCE

New York, June 7 [Special].—Connecticut Republicans today said that they are seeking to have Clare Boothe Luce, author and playwright, run for congress. However, they said, Mrs. Luce has not yet agreed to make the race.

Mrs. Luce is the wife of Henry R. [White Feather] Luce, owner of the Time-Life-Fortune magazine axis which favored the entrance of the United States into the war before Pearl Harbor. She held similar views.

State Chairman J. Kenneth Bradley and Samuel Pryor, campaign manager for Wendell Willkie, today stated they would like to see Mrs. Luce representing the 4th congressional district in Connecticut. The authoress was a stanch supporter of Willkie.

Louisiana Democrats Hail Willkie, Invite Him Down

Baton Rouge, La., June 7 (AP).—The all-Democratic Louisiana state senate tonight adopted a resolution inviting Wendell L. Willkie to address the body before its adjournment on July 9. The resolution set forth that Willkie is a potential candidate for President in 1944. It added that "many of us will be enlightened" by his views. The resolution was adopted unanimously.

U-BOAT BASE AT EMDEN SMASHED BY RAF BOMBERS

Channel Coast and Sicily Also Hammered.

LONDON, June 7 (AP).—Hundreds of heavy bombers struck last night at Germany's great naval and submarine base at Emden with tons of high explosives and incendiaries as the RAF shifted its 24 hour offensive to seaports. Emden is one of the main bases for U-boats harassing United States and British shipping.

The air ministry said a large proportion of the planes were four-engined bombers of the Lancaster, Sterling, and Halifax types which carry the greatest weight of bombs.

Dutch Bases Attacked.

German air bases in the Low Countries also were attacked in the widespread night raids, which cost the British nine bombers and one fighter. The loss was believed to be far below the dangerous 10 per cent which makes operations unprofitable.

The raid on Emden was the 75th of the war for that city and came a night after the RAF had worked over the neighboring port of Bremen with fire and high explosive bombs.

The raid followed by just one week the 1,000 bomber holocust at Cologne. The RAF confined itself to the statement that a strong force of bombers was sent against Emden.

Sicily Takes Pounding.

Another long arm of the bomber command, striking from Mediterranean area bases, stepped up its series of blows at insular and continental Italy, which only two nights ago reached to within 50 miles of Rome.

The Littoria region south of the Italian capital and Naples were Friday night targets of the RAF. Points in Sicily were bombed last night.

The attack on Naples after a three months layoff was taken as an indication that Hitler and Mussolini might be trying to hurry reënforcements to Marshal Erwin Rommel's battered North Africa corps.

Military experts said they believed the renewed British air attacks on Sicily and the toe of Italy meant the RAF was using Malta's air fields again after repulsing the virtually nonstop axis efforts in March, April, and May to knock out the Mediterranean's "biggest aircraft carrier."

Several persons were injured and houses were damaged this evening in a Messerschmitt bombing foray at a point on the southwest coast.

Berlin Admits Damage.

BERLIN, June 7 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—British warplanes attacked a city on the northwest German coast with incendiaries and high explosives during the night, causing some damage and casualties in residential districts, military quarters announced today. Six of the raiders were reported shot down.

Canterbury, England, was attacked last night by German bomber formations which dropped high explosives and incendiaries, the German high command announced.

Start Fires in Sicily.

ROME, June 7 [from Italian broadcasts]—(AP).—"Several waves" of British bombers attacked Messina in northern Sicily last night, said today's high command communique.

"Fires were quickly extinguished after they had broken out in a mountain region of the province." No casualties were reported.

Three planes were said to have been shot down by ground fire.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 7.—An undetected, unexploded bomb dropped by the Germans 13 months ago caused the explosion which wrecked a large area of the Elephant and Castle district of London Saturday night, the ministry of home security said today. The blast killed 22 and injured 70.

Women were gossiping on their doorsteps, their menfolk having drinks at nearby saloons, and children were playing in the streets when suddenly a shattering detonation occurred, followed by the roar of steel girders, falling mortar, and hugh pieces of débris as tenement buildings collapsed.

JAPS DRIVE 120 MILES AND ENTER CHUHSIEN WALLS

Fierce Hand to Hand Fight Rages in City.

CHUNGKING, China, June 7 (AP).—Japanese forces, throwing their entire strength into an attack on Chuhsien, Chekiang province, have penetrated the walled city, where Chinese defenders engaged them in a hand to hand struggle, it was announced tonight.

Before making their stab yesterday into the town 120 miles from the starting point of their offensive at Hangchow, the Japanese succeeded in taking one of their main objectives, the airfield which they apparently believed would be used for United States air raids on Tokio.

As the war with Japan entered its 60th month today, the Chinese found themselves battling not only on the east in Chekiang but also in Kiangsi to the west and Hupeh to the north of Kiangsi, where the Japanese were beginning a new drive.

Skirmishes in North.

They were also engaging in incessant skirmishes in Shansi in North China, and combating a Japanese naval bombardment of the Mamoi forts which guard the approaches to Foochow, in Fukien.

In Kiangsi, where the Japanese were spearing toward a junction with columns in adjacent Chekiang, the Chinese launched a sudden counter-offensive to the west of Nanchang, the base of the Japanese thrust. The Chinese were striving to prevent the junction which would mean entrapment for large Chinese forces.

Concerted attacks were made on Anyi, Tehan, Wushanpu, and Juichang, west of Nanchang, and these were said to have achieved considerable success, especially at Anyi and Wushanpu, where many casualties were inflicted and war materials captured.

Advance Along Railway.

The Japanese driving southeast of Nanchang along the destroyed interprovincial railway, made continued progress, however, advancing from Likhiatu, 30 miles from Nanchang, and penetrating into Linchwan [Fuchow], 20 miles farther along the road.

Spread eastward of that main route the Japanese also pushed beyond Tsinsien, 25 miles southeast of Nanchang, reached Chiangchulin, and moved on toward Tungsiang, 20 more miles along the road.

Westward of the main route, however, in the "Y" formed by the Fu and Kan rivers, the Japanese were halted on a line running thru Futowent, Tachienlin, and Takiangkow. Chinese units were detouring to attack these forces from the rear, and inflicted 500 casualties at one place.

The only news from the southwestern front along the Burma road was that six Japanese planes bombed Paoshan, east of the Salween river.

'Tiger' Tells Misery of Burma March.

Jamestown, Tenn., June 6 (AP).—The bleeding feet of Chinese soldiers marching from Chungking to Burma to bolster the defense of Burma turned the dust into bloody mud, but the only ones that dropped by the wayside were the dead.

So said Randal Richardson, 22, who returned home today to see Sergt. Alvin C. York, chairman of the Fentress county draft board, about rejoining the United States navy, from which he was released to join the A. V. G. flyers [Flying Tigers] in China last July.

Carry Their Comrades.

Telling of the passage of the Chinese fifth and sixth divisions thru Kunming on their forced march toward Burma, Richardson said.

"I never saw anything like it. They'd been marching for days 30 or 40 miles a day. Every other soldier was half carrying a comrade who'd about given out.

"They came stumbling along, hanging on each other, some with their eyes rolled back and their mouths dropped open. They were covered with dust, ragged.

Die on Their Feet.

"I saw them die on their feet of tiredness and maybe be carried along 10 or 20 paces by the man helping them. It was terrible and wonderful."

Richardson, who was reported dead several months ago by mistake, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Richardson, farmers of Jamestown.

He wants to get back in the navy—preferably as a combat pilot. His reason: "My best buddy in the A. V. G. was Pappy Hofman of Los Angeles," he said. "The Japs shot him down over Rangoon. I want to take his place and finish his fight with those Zeros."

RAF BOMBS JAP TROOPS AND SHIP IN BURMESE PORT

NEW DELHI, India, June 7 (AP).—The RAF struck strong blows at Japanese troop concentrations at Homalin on the east side of the Chindwin river in northwest Burma and bombed Akyab yesterday, it was announced today.

A merchant vessel was attacked, a wharf damaged, and river craft machine gunned from low level, the communique said.

Germans in Too Large Homes Must Give Them Up

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, June 7.—Germans who have more room than they need in their apartments must give up their homes to larger families, slum residents, war wounded, or relatives of men killed in action. The labor front sponsors the decree.

RESCUED NURSES TELL OF TRAGIC DAYS ON BATAAN

13 Women in Australia After Flight.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, June 8 [Monday]—(AP).—Thirteen American women, among the last to leave the Philippines, have arrived in Australia, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters announced today. They included 11 army nurses, a navy nurse, and a navy officer's wife.

The navy nurse was Ann Burnatitus of New York and the officer's wife, Mrs. Margaret Janson, wife of a navy lieutenant who served on Bataan.

Lieut. McKay's Story.

Lieut. McKay related that when the Japanese first struck at Luzon the nurses at Fort Stotsenburg gave up their quarters and slept under the hospital buildings. On Christmas day they all were withdrawn to Manila, where they boarded a boat the following day for Corregidor.

As they were preparing to depart with a load of 500 sick and wounded the ammunition dumps at Cavite naval station were blown up. Their boat stood off Corregidor during the night of Dec. 27 while some of the nurses were taken to the fortress and others were transferred by barge to Bataan.

Lieut. McKay was taken to No. 2 hospital at Bataan where, she said, it was "necessary to improvise everything."

Essential Drugs Sufficient.

"But we never ran out of essential drugs like quinine and the sulfa group," she added. "We always had enough bandages."

Ten of the nurses who were landed on Corregidor, including Lieut. Petersen, were sent to Bataan on April 6 in time to see something of the final phase of the battle there, but were ordered back to Corregidor two days later.

"We had to leave our patients and hospital staff on Bataan," Lieut. Petersen said. "On the way to the dock they were blowing up ammunition dumps ahead of us and it was dangerous to go on.

"Edith Corns, Sally Blaine, Beth Veley, and myself were the first to reach the dock, but we couldn't find the others or the boat. Eventually a small boat came and we started for Corregidor. It was daylight by then, but we got there safely."

"Most of us wore overalls and some wore shorts," said Lieut McKay. "We each had a pair of shoes and nothing else to take with us. But every one was wonderful to us."

5 ENLISTED MEN WIN STARS FOR BRAVERY IN AIR

MELBOURNE, Australia, June 7 (AP)—The heroism of five American enlisted men was acknowledged officially today in the award of silver stars to the men by Lieut. Gen. George H. Brett, commander of the allied air forces in the southwest Pacific. The men are Pvt. Wilbur E. Brown of Salt Lake City, Utah; Sergt. Luther B. Word, Corps. Henry P. Sheppard and Andrew J. Swain, and Pvt. Francis J. Garvey.

When two members of the crew were wounded, Brown removed his own oxygen mask and went to their assistance, carried them into the radio compartment, administered first aid and adjusted his own oxygen supply to give both oxygen.

Word, Sheppard, and Swain were gunners in a bombardment plane in a flight over New Guinea when they were attacked by five Japanese Zero fighters, two of whom they shot down. Not once during the 35 minute attack, the citation said, did they permit the Japanese fighters to maneuver into position where effective fire could be directed against the bomber. Garvey was cited for bravery in saving the life of an Australian soldier on March 16 when Japanese planes attacked an airdrome at Port Darwin.

U. S. IS WINNING WAR ON U-BOATS, ASSERTS VINSON

Raiders Withdraw from East Coast, He Says.

Washington, D. C., June 7 (AP).—Rep. Carl Vinson [D., Ga.], chairman of the house naval committee, said today that the anti-submarine warfare organization has passed thru its period of growing pains, is well established, and is functioning efficiently.

The statement said in conclusion that "the committee has full confidence that we shall defeat the submarine." It said that "in the last few weeks the submarine has largely withdrawn from our eastern seaboard and is operating farther at sea."

Finds Criticism "Unjustified."

Vinson said there had been criticism to the effect that the navy had not taken full advantage of all the pleasure craft, fishing boats, and small, privately owned planes for search, lookout, and rescue assignments.

"The figures in this matter," he said, "have been placed before the committee, and it is satisfied that such criticism is, in general, not justified. The value of such auxiliary means is generally overestimated. All larger vessels of real value have long since been taken over and are now in use by the navy."

Text of Statement.

Following is the text of the navy approved statement:

"On Wednesday, June 3, 1942, at the request of Chairman Vinson, Vice Admiral Russell Willson, United States navy chief of staff to Adm. [Ernest J.] King, commander in chief, United States fleet, appeared before the house naval affairs committee in executive session to discuss the general aspects of the naval war effort and, in particular, anti-submarine warfare.

"As a result of this discussion, Chairman Vinson and the naval committee feel that they may properly communicate to the country a feeling of confidence in the navy and in its conduct of anti-submarine warfare, which has recently been the cause of much discussion and concern.

"It should be made clear to the country that the anti-submarine warfare which has been so forcibly brought to its attention by the loss of vessels on the Atlantic and the gulf seaboard, is but one phase of world-wide naval and military warfare.

A Problem of Dispersion.

"The country at large sees the anti-submarine problem, but it does not know and cannot realize the other demands which confront the navy in nearly every part of the world. There are those who, lacking such knowledge, nevertheless believe that our military effort is too widespread and should be concentrated in fewer areas.

"The distribution of our war effort in the last analysis rests with Gen. [George] Marshall and Adm. King, under the President; as regards the navy it is obvious that Adm. King has more information and more experience on which to base decisions in such matters than has any other person. As an example of such decisions, concerning submarine warfare, there is the question of having a number of escort vessels inadequate to fully protect both troop transports and coastal cargo vessels.

"Who shall say that the decision as to dividing these craft has not been sound, when it is realized that so far we have not lost a soldier of the many thousand sent overseas?

British Efforts Reviewed.

"We hear of the success of the English in driving the submarine from their home waters. Few people realize, however, that their effort in this regard is now in its third year, that the British Isles would fit comfortably into the Gulf of Mexico, and that a concentration in our sea frontiers of air, surface, and shore installations such as obtain in the British Isles would require that our present resources be multiplied by 10, and our training and experience in less but similar proportion.

"The defeat of the submarine menace involves four essentials—organization, material, personnel, and training.

"An organization cannot be suddenly built up and expanded 50-fold with smoothness and full efficiency. However, the anti-submarine warfare organization has now passed thru its period of growing pains, is well established, and is functioning effectively.

Coöperation from Army.

"In each of these frontiers there is unity of command vested in the navy over all army aircraft engaged in anti-submarine warfare, and the army and navy are established together in joint operational centers. The army is coöperating wholeheartedly.

"The tools of anti-submarine warfare are planes, ships, and special equipment. In general, the navy is proud of the progress of its shipbuilding program. Unfortunately, the only types in which it is not well ahead of schedule are those most needed in combating submarines. Despite all-out effort on the navy's part, the Deisel engine and small ship capacity of the country could not be expanded sufficiently and in the desired time. Delivery of such craft, however, is underway and from now on they will be available in increasing numbers.

"The special anti-submarine equipment in these craft is another problem which has held us back, but it is approaching a more satisfactory condition. A similar problem appears in planes, but this situation is likewise rapidly improving.

Pleasure Craft Unused.

"There has been criticism that the navy has not taken full advantage of all the pleasure craft, fishing boats, and small planes for search, lookout, rescue, etc.

"The figures in this matter have been placed before the committee and it is satisfied that such criticism is, in general, not justified. The value of such auxiliary means is generally overestimated. All larger vessels of real value have long since been taken over and are now in use by the navy.

"As regards personnel, the anti-submarine effort has had the same problem of all other naval expansions, first, to get the officers and men and then to train them to go to sea. In the case of the anti-submarine personnel, however, this training has to proceed far into a complicated and highly specialized field. The British experience, which has been made unreservedly available to our navy, indicates that adequate training is the most important of all the essential elements of success in beating the submarine. In this field the navy has been commendably forehanded, but only now is the training system beginning to pay dividends.

A Tough, Clever Enemy.

"In dealing with submarines we have a tough and clever enemy, and it does not pay to be unduly optimistic. However, the fact remains that in the last few weeks the submarine has largely withdrawn from our eastern seaboard and is operating farther at sea. This works to our advantage, as does the great element of time, which has now begun to run in our favor.

"The enemy is building more submarines, but he cannot build them in the proportion we are increasing our means of combating them.

"The committee has full confidence that we shall defeat the submarine."

U-BOATS SINK 2 MORE VESSELS IN WATERS OFF U. S.

AN EASTERN PORT, June 7.—The captain of a Nazi submarine which torpedoed a medium-sized American merchantman in the Atlantic distributed cigarets, rum, and clothing to survivors but those who escaped from a Norwegian vessel sunk in the Caribbean were not so lucky.

In an interview released today by the navy, Nils Oversen, chief engineer of the Norwegian ship, told of being awakened by the shelling of his ship, finding the engine room deserted, and the bodies of several shipmates on deck.

With seven others Oversen fled in a lifeboat and later saw the ship burst into flames and settle stern first after an explosion. After drifting three days in shark infested waters of the south Atlantic, the eight were rescued and landed at a South American port on May 15.

Seven Others Survive.

Altho Oversen and his companions believed they were the only ones to escape, seven others of the 33 man crew were landed at another port.

The new sinkings raised to 228 the total of ships lost in American waters thru submarine action since Pearl Harbor, with 1,387 persons known dead, 1,543 missing and believed lost, and 7,320 rescued.

Capt. Alderman L. Scott of Mobile, Ala., said the submarine commander "seemed to feel sorry" for his victims after he torpedoed the American ship May 30. The ship sank in less than five minutes and the captain and 24 of his crew drifted for 56 hours before they were picked up by a united nations merchant ship and landed in an eastern port.

Crewmen Trapped on Ship.

Three members of the crew of the American ship were killed by a torpedo blast, and four, including the radio operator, were trapped aboard and went down with the ship.

"I was in the radio shack giving the operator, Frank Talley of New York City, our position so he could send out an S.O.S," Capt. Scott said. "Then I left to get my ship's papers and an immense wave washed me off the bridge. Talley never had a chance to get off and went down with the ship."

A patrol plane sighted the survivors 6 hours after the attack and signaled to them.

"Our eyes were so irritated from oil and salt water, however, that we couldn't understand them," Scott said.

Those enlisted, who must be between 18 and 45 years old, citizens, and not immediately subject to selective service, will be given ratings from private first class to specialist and sergeant.

BRITISH SMASH BACK 2 NAZI TANK ATTACKS IN LIBYA

Send Enemy Reeling Thru Gap in Minefield.

CAIRO, Egypt, June 7 (AP).—Two heavy German tank attacks in the Libyan desert at Knightsbridge were repulsed by the British and tonight the Nazis were reeling back south and west of Harmat toward a gap in the minefields thru which they hoped to escape.

Marshal Erwin Rommel was reported in the Knightsbridge area 15 miles south of Tobruk directing his men personally and throwing the full weight of his remaining armored forces—over half of which have been wiped out—against the staunchly standing British.

Harmat is six miles south of Knightsbridge on the road to Bir Hacheim and lies within 15 miles of the base of the axis salient thru the minefields, about midway between El Gazala and Bir Hacheim.

Biggest of Libyan Battles.

The new tank battle, now in its 13th day, was described as the largest and bitterest in the present Libyan campaign.

The whole picture was one of wild and confused fighting in scorching heat. British infantry and artillery supported by armed forces hurled back the Knightsbridge assault yesterday in which "the enemy launched his main armored forces at our troops," the communique said.

"Fierce fighting continued thruout the afternoon," it added, "the enemy was driven back westward. British and Indian troops who had established themselves inside the enemy positions west of Harmat on the night of June 5-6, held their ground all day."

The British considered Harmat an extremely important position, since it was near the escape gap and might be used to block any wholesale axis exodus from the great triangle which has become a junkyard of burned out tanks, and vehicles, and planes of both sides.

Maps Tell Nazi Plan.

Large scale maps found on the axis prisoners gave rise to the belief that the Germans originally intended to carry the campaign to Egypt and Suez.

[The Italians said the axis counter-attack "resulted in great successes" in which 4,000 British were captured and 30 tanks destroyed. The communique said British losses now totaled 550 tanks and cars and 10,000 prisoners. In vague terms, the German communique said the counter-attacks brought great success in which "the enemy was defeated and here and there encircled and destroyed."]

While the main battle proceeded, the "Free French" at Bir Hacheim beat off two fresh enemy assaults, inflicting heavy casualties on the Italians. The French had just received fresh munitions to replenish their dwindled stocks.

RAF Pounds Enemy Columns.

Numerous armed vehicles were destroyed along the route. The flyers also had time to shoot down three German fighters, and to bomb landing fields at Martuba and Derna and shipping at Bengazi.

Sub Attacks Force Turkey to Keep Ships Near Home

BERLIN, June 7 [from German broadcasts] — (AP).—Dispatches from Turkey said today that Turkish merchant ships henceforth will not be permitted to voyage to foreign waters because of the increasing number of attacks on vessels going to Bulgarian ports. Official Turkish announcements have attributed these attacks to "unknown" submarines.

TELLS HOW TOUGH U. S. TANKS SMASH NAZIS IN LIBYA

New York, June 7 (AP).—Maj. Gen. A. H. Gatehouse, commander of a British armored division using American-built tanks in Libya, said today the reliability of American tanks was such that only 12 of 166 broke down mechanically during 40 days of operation.

Speaking from Cairo, Egypt, on the Army hour over the NBC-Red network, Gen. Gatehouse referred specifically to the Gen. Scott tank "generally used for local protection and reconnaissance" and the Gen. Grants and Lees which he called "exceptionally powerful tanks," with thick armor and anti-aircraft cannons.

The general told of 14 American tanks altho outnumbered, dog fighting at close range with the 15th German armored division.

"Each one of these received an average of five direct shell hits apiece," Gatehouse said. "Some had jammed turrets and others were damaged, but they were still running and more than 20 German tanks were left on the field ablaze."

BY ORDER, CZECHS FILL STREETS TO 'MOURN' HEYDRICH

Berlin Radio Warns of Bigger Purge.

LONDON, June 7 (AP).—The body of Reinhard Heydrich, the Gestapo hangman for whose assassination 216 thru the streets of Prague today in an official mourning ceremony which the whole population was commanded to attend under pain of further reprisals.

From Smetana square under the ramparts of Hradshin castle, palace of the ancient kings of Bohemia, down the hill to the railway station, the streets were jammed.

For three days, since he died of wounds inflicted by Czech patriots on May 27, Heydrich had lain in the old castle, an honor guard at head and foot of his bier.

Two Women Executed.

The mourning ceremony, conducted with all the unqualified somberness of the Gestapo, was merely the prelude to a state funeral in Berlin ordered by Hitler, and the rapid elevation of Heydrich to the eminence of a Nazi saint.

The number of those executed in retaliation for Heydrich's death stood at 216, thirteen having been shot yesterday, including a business man, an industrialist and an architect who were reported by the Prague radio to have expressed satisfaction with the attack on Heydrich. The seven others were said to have been convicted for illegal possession of firearms. Two were women.

The Berlin radio quoted at length an article in the Prague newspaper Nardoni Politika admonishing the Czechs to behave and at the same time announcing an impending purge.

Everybody must be aware, the paper said, that the Germans are strong enough to crush within a few days any nest of resistance in central Europe.

"Exterminate Ruthlessly."

"If the Czech people were to choose passivity, the consequences would be the same," the paper said. "In time the Czech people would be stricken off as a creative factor in the reich and thus in practice would be expelled from the new Europe.

"Hitherto elements opposing the reich have been dealt with by the reich authorities. But from now on the Czech government will ruthlessly exterminate all elements who even should they not oppose the reich directly, by their ambiguous attitude are menacing the existence of the Czech people.

"This purge will in the first place be extended to those civil servants who have direct influence on the mentality of the nation, namely educators. The attitude of the nation always has been and still is the result of merit or guilt of teachers and priests who today should be reminded of the words of the scriptures that woe will befall those stirring up excitement."

Report Sweden to Tighten Anti-Aircraft Fire Rules

MOSCOW, June 7 (AP).—A Tass news agency dispatch from Stockholm said today the Swedish government had decided to apply stricter rules to the use of anti-aircraft fire because of repeated flights by German planes over the Swedish frontier. Since May 31, the dispatch said, at least seven German planes have penetrated far into western Sweden.

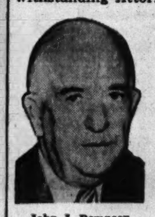
RED BUROCRATS SECURE DESPITE BRIDGES RULING

'Probe' Expected to Clear Majority of Group.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 7.—Notwithstanding Attorney General Francis Biddle's ruling in the Harry Bridges case that the Communist party is working to overthrow the United States government by force and violence, thousands of Communists and communist fellow travelers continue to enjoy apparent social security on the federal pay roll.



John J. Dempsey.

There were predictions in well informed official quarters today that the overwhelming majority of 4,112 federal jobholders accused of subversive inclinations and investigated by the Federal Bureau of Investigation will be exonerated by an interdepartmental committee appointed by President Roosevelt to review their cases.

This committee, headed by John J. Dempsey, under secretary of the interior, is preparing a report for submission to congress by the end of the fiscal year June 30.

Few Dislodged by Dies.

Persistent blasting by Rep. Martin Dies [D., Tex.], chairman of the house committee on un-American activities, has dislodged a few fellow travelers from their government berths but Dies has found that getting a Communist off the pay roll in most instances literally requires an act of congress.

Malcolm Cowley was forced to surrender an $8,000 job at the Office of Facts and Figures when Dies revealed his Communist affiliations. Maurice Parmelee, an exponent of nudism, and C. Hartley Grattan both were driven out of $5,000 jobs in the Board of Economic Warfare.

Still holding key government jobs are the following:

1. Fowler V. Harper, deputy commissioner of Paul V. McNutt's new Man Power Mobilization commission at $8,000 a year. Harper, a professor of law at Indiana university, is a member of the American Lawyers' guild, which was pronounced too communistic for such radicals as Judge Ferdinand Pecora and Assistant Secretary of State Adolph A. Berle Jr. when they resigned.

In March, 1941, during the period of the Hitler-Stalin alliance, Harper signed a petition to President Roosevelt urging that there be no discrimination against the Communist party. Later he presided at a meeting of the left wing Tuesday Evening club in Indianapolis, Ind., at which Theodore Dreiser asserted that soviet Russia has the only real "democracy."

Harper, who is 44 years old, played soldier in peacetime, becoming a reserve captain in the judge advocate general's department. Altho he served for a time as chairman of the joint army and navy committee on welfare and recreation, he has succeeded thus far in avoiding active duty on a captain's pay.

Known as Agitator.

2. Karl Borders, director of the rent division of the Office of Price administration at $6,500. Borders was executive secretary of the Chicago chapter of the revolutionary League for Industrial Democracy, now defunct. He was known to the red squad of the Chicago police department for many years as a radical agitator. According to the OPA, however, Borders has been investigated by the FBI and exonerated by the Civil Service commission.

3. Tom Tippett, assistant chief of the OPA's rent division at $5,600. Tippett was a member of the national executive committee of the Conference for Progressive Action, which stated its purpose as follows: "It aims to inspire the workers to take control of industry and government, abolish the present capitalist system, and build a workers' republic and an economic system operated for the benefit of the masses and not the few." According to the OPA, Tippett also has been investigated by the FBI and exonerated by the Civil Service commission.

One Quits Under Fire.

4. Robert A. Brady, head consultant of the OPA at $7,500. As a result of charges made nine months ago by Rep. Dies, Brady's discharge was recommended by the Civil Service commission and he has resigned as of July 15, when he will resume his duties as a professor of economics at the University of California. His wife, Mildred Edie Brady, who was on the OPA pay roll at $5,600 a year as principal specialist in consumer education, resigned last January while under investigation.

5. Harold Loeb, senior business specialist of the OPA at $4,600. Loeb's qualifications as a business specialist, according to Rep. Dies, include the writing of "several unsuccessful novels, which veered somewhat to the pornographic, and several books on technocracy, which veered emphatically to the crackpot."

6. E. J. [Jack] Lever, principal field representative of the labor division of the War Production board at $5,600. Lever was associated with Tippett on the national executive committee of the Revolutionary Conference for Progressive Action.

Principal in Smear Plot.

7. Gardner Jackson, special assistant to Paul Appleby, undersecretary of agriculture. Jackson and half a dozen other protégés of Prof. Rexford Guy Tugwell were "purged" from the department of agriculture in the early days of the New Deal, but he is back in a far more influential position than he had before. According to Rep. Dies he has "one of the longest records of activity in Communist organizations of any man in this country." Jackson was a principal in a plot to smear Rep. Dies thru the use of forged letters a few years ago.

Dies has charged that Leon Henderson's OPA, which exercises a virtual economic dictatorship thru its price control and rationing powers, is loaded with Communists, fellow travelers, technocrats, crackpots, and assorted nuts.

Nine months ago, on Sept. 6, 1941, Dies wrote to President Roosevelt reminding him that Henderson had "been connected with several of the front organizations or transmission belts of the Communist party" and charging that the OPA was staffed with officials whose views were "completely at variance with any concept of Americanism."

Fifty in OPA Accused.

Dies charged that at least 50 officials and employés of the OPA had communist front affiliations and submitted the records of Brady, Mrs. Brady, Tippett, and Dewey H. Palmer, the later an OPA consultant at $20 a day. Dies sent to the President a photostatic copy of a letter in which Palmer's communistic sympathies were expressed in his own handwriting. Inquiry at the OPA disclosed that Palmer is no longer there, but personnel officials said they understood he had gone to some other government agency.

In his letter to the President, Dies quoted extensively from one of Brady's books, which was published in 1937 by Victor Gollancz, Ltd., of London, a communist publishing house, and distributed by the Left Book club of England.

How Brady Feels About Things.

In this book, titled "The Spirit and Structure of German Fascism," Brady wrote: "Knowledge of the facts and a little reflection will show that the issue does not turn on 'Fascism' per se, but on that form of capitalism of which it is no more than the politically conscious phase. For better or worse, the deeper issue now being squarely faced is whether capitalism as a coercive political and economic system should be allowed any longer to survive. . . . As all parties realize, the end result will be either the triumph of reaction and a new lease on life for capitalism, or else a victory for Socialism and the extermination of the rich and powerful of bank, factory, bivouac, and cloister."

Associated with Technocrats.

The man who expressed these revolutionary sentiments has been permitted to remain on the pay roll as head consultant of the OPA during the entire formative period of its program of wartime economic dictatorship. When the Civil Service commission recommended his dismissal in January, he demanded and was given an opportunity for a rehearing, the result of which has not been announced.

When Henderson denied he had been associated with the technocrats, Dies produced a front page story from the New York Times of Jan. 24, 1933, which said: "The break-up of the technocrats was accomplished by the resignation of four of the eight members of the committee on technocracy, including Prof. Walter Rautenstrauch, Leon Henderson, housing expert of the Russell Sage Foundation; Ferdinand L. Ackerman, architect, and Bassett Jones, inventor, industrial engineer, and counsel."

Dies called the attention of the house to a book written by Loeb, titled "Life in a Technocracy," which proposed the complete abolition of money and the substitution of certificates of energy called "ergs." Each person would receive 20,000 ergs at the beginning of each year. Everybody would work 16 hours a week.

Edited by Lasser.

The editor of the Journal of Technocracy was David Lasser, whose removal from the pay roll of the WPA required an act of congress. Lasser's practical experience for a career as a New Deal economist also included the presidency of the Interplanetary Travel association, which was promoting a rocket clipper service to Mars and possibly other ports of call in the solar system.

The job holders mentioned above are only a few of the hundreds identified as communists or fellow travelers by the Dies committee. More than a year ago congress overcame administration opposition to appropriate $100,000 for an investigation of subversive influences in the government departments and agencies by the FBI.

Attorney General Biddle asked Dies for the names of members of subversive organizations in the possession of his committee and Dies sent him a list of 1,122 names in October, 1941. Other complaints referred to the FBI by departments, agencies, and individuals raised the total to 4,112.

Put Up to Committee.

The administration, however, did not trust the FBI with authority to make recommendations for the discharge of suspects. In each case the FBI makes an investigation and submits a report on the facts without recommendation.

On April 22 Mr. Roosevelt appointed the Dempsey committee to review the FBI reports and make recommendations. Dempsey, a former congressman from New Mexico, was a member of the Dies committee, on which he distinguished himself as an apologist for the administration.

His appointment as chairman of the reviewing committee consequently produced a widespread belief that a whitewash is contemplated.

pression. But they have radios and are learning of the movement among Swedish-Americans to help the Norwegian cause and they, too, are grateful. We are grateful, not only for the planes, but for the friendship that goes with them."

Other Chicagoland officers for this campaign are: Prof. Gustav Johnson of North Park college, Mrs. Daisy Melin, secretary of the Swedish National society; Bernard Johnson, grand master of the Svithiod order, and Einar Andersson, editor of the Swedish-American Tribune.

On the board of directors are: Ellis F. Hillner, Carl Festin, Erik Thulin, Mrs. George E. Q. Johnson, Sven Ramsey, Nils Rudstrom, Martin Sundstrom, and Maj. Henry Rostett and Adj. Stig Franzen of the Salvation Army.

Come to Illinois in Waves.

The Swedish immigration to this country began before the Revolutionary war and of all the nationalities coming to America none was more quickly assimilated. Chicago's first Swede is said to have been Olof G. Lange, who opened a drug store here in 1838. In the '80s Swedes came into Illinois in waves.

It is estimated there are some 200,000 persons of Swedish stock in Chicago and environs. The 1930 census figures, the latest available, gave Chicago 66,000 foreign born Swedes and 75,000 native born of foreign parents. Some leaders include second and third generations and raise the total of persons with Swedish blood in Cook county to 400,000.

There used to be five Swedish newspapers in Chicago. Now there is only one, the Swedish-American Tribune. The publisher is F. A. Larson and the editor is Einer Andersson, who also is president of the Swedish Journalists' association. Assimilation of the Swedes has become so complete, he says, that there are no Swedish dailies in the United States.

Swedes Quickly Assimilated.

Speaking of this assimilation, George E. Q. Johnson, former United States district attorney, says:

"Swedes adapted themselves quickly to American ways. Swedish institutions are much like ours. When the language difficulty was solved, they blended. When the churches went to services in English, this helped to drop the hyphen. They're all Americans."

All of the many Swedish organizations are active. The Swedish club, 1258 North La Salle street, is a landmark. It is 73 years old, has 500 regular members and 100 associate non-Swedish members. Its president is C. Hilding Anderson. Head of the women's auxiliary is Mrs. Carl R. Chindblom, wife of the former congressman from the 10th district.

This club has purchased an ambulance to be given to the Red Cross June 24. It is pledged to buy $500 in war bonds monthly. This is in addition to individual purchases. Many of the women are in Red Cross work.

Other Well Known Clubs.

Among other well known Swedish clubs are the Svithiod Singing club, 624 West Wrightwood avenue; the Swedish Engineers society, 503 West Wrightwood, and the South Side Swedish club, 7330 Ridgeland avenue. All are busy in win the war efforts.

There are 28 provincial societies, composed of persons from different Swedish provinces and their descendents. The Swedish Choral club, Harry T. Carlson, conductor; the American Union of Swedish Singers, Edward E. Johnson, chairman, and Fred Bolling, honorary chairman, which has 5 male choruses; the Scandinavian Fraternity of America, the Swedish National society, which helps needy families, and the Swedish Good Templars, are only a few of many Swedish organizations all contributing to the war effort.

Groups of women are busy in all phases of war work. Plasma banks have many pints of red Swedish blood. Many churches make special offerings for religious centers in the camps. Service flags are dedicated with special ceremonies. One typical church with a congregation of 2,000 had 76 men in service. At the dedication, slides of all the boys were thrown on the screen.

109 Swedish Churches.

Magnificent support to all forms of war enterprise is being given by the 109 Swedish churches in the Chicago area. There are 47 Augustana Synod Lutheran churches, 27 Mission Covenant, 17 Baptist, 1 Episcopal, and 17 Methodist churches. In addition the Salvation Army has a Swedish department. Nearly all churches hold services in English, with auxiliary services in Swedish. Members of congregations are busy in war bond drives, in neighborhood drives, and in keeping in touch with boys in service.

Three Swedish nation-wide fraternal societies are Svithiod, the Vikings, and Vasa. Each has many lodges and large memberships. Svithiod is the classical name of Sweder as Columbia is of America. Both Svithiod and the Vikings have bought about $75,000 each of war bonds. Vasa has made purchases of as high proportions. This is outside of individual buying, done thru banks and pay roll deductions. Leaders report everybody is buying and pledges of 10 per cent of income are quite general.

Competent in Many Fields.

Chicagoans of Swedish extraction are to be found in all walks of life. There are bankers, lawyers, merchants, doctors, artists, politicians, craftsmen, engineers, and architects. Many are in the machine shops. They are noted for precision work in tool and die plants.

They are great builders. Before the depression 40 per cent of Chicago's building, skyscraper and residential, was done by Swedish-Americans as contractors and workers. A Swedish slum is unknown. When a neighborhood begins to run down the Swedes move on to a better district.

GREEN INDUCTS MILITIA AIR CORPS; 50 PLANES FLY TO SPRINGFIELD

Springfield, Ill., June 7 [Special].—Fifty airplanes were flown here today from various parts of Illinois by amateur pilots who were inducted into state service as members of the Illinois reserve militia air corps. Gov. Green presided at the induction ceremonies, which helped inaugurate Illinois' state-wide "dedication to victory" week observance.

Various types of training and pleasure craft made up the fleet of planes whose owners have offered to donate their services in any wartime emergency inside the state's borders. The volunteer corps is one of four such state organizations in the nation.

Addressing 25,000 persons at the municipal airport, Gov. Green said the militia's air arm may prove invaluable in meeting emergency needs, such as the transportation of militia troops to the scene of disasters, or for first aid flights to stricken areas in the event of fire, flood, or tornado.

SAYS X-RAY CAN CUT TOLL OF GAS GANGRENE 90%

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Atlantic City, N. J., June 7.—Belief that X-ray treatment would reduce the mortality rate from the battlefield scourge, gas gangrene, by more than 90 per cent from World War I. figures was expressed here today by Dr. James F. Kelly, Omaha, Neb.

Dr. Kelly, member of the faculty of the Creighton university school of medicine, has prepared an exhibit on radiology in conjunction with the convention of the American Medical association, which opens tomorrow.

Gas gangrene is a frequent complication in war wounds, and unless checked usually proves fatal within a week. Dr. Kelly's charts, which attracted much attention in the exhibit hall today, showed that from 1914 to 1918 some 48.5 per cent of those attacked by the malady died, and most of the other 51.5 per cent recovered only after mutilating operations.

X-ray treatment was unknown for such cases in that war and quick amputation was the usual technique.

Riverside Collects 75 Tons of Scrap to Aid War Drive

CHAPTER 41

PRESIDENT FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT'S recognition of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's great ability is summarized in these words attributed to him: "I must always find a way to keep MacArthur close to me. If we ever have another A.E.F., he's the man to take it over." Douglas MacArthur did take over; and his bravery and patriotic devotion soon won him the overwhelming admiration of every American.

In 1942 he was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor for "conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity, above and beyond the call of duty in the Philippines against Japanese forces . . . His utter disregard of personal danger under heavy fire and aerial bombardment, his calm judgment in each crisis inspired his troops, galvanized the spirit of resistance of the Filipino people and confirmed the faith of the American people

REMEMBER PEARL HARBOR? CHICAGO DOES—AND HOW!

'Anniversary Gift' to Japs Is 162 Avengers.

Chicago joined with all the nation yesterday, exactly six months after the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, in commemorating that occasion.

It was a solemn memorial for those who died at Pearl Harbor, but a fighting one—a memorial in which 12,326 young Americans joined their nation's sea service to avenge their country. It was a mass enlistment unparalleled in navy history.

The nation-wide ceremony took place at 1:25 p. m.—six months to the minute after the Pearl Harbor attack.

Swear in 162 Avengers Here.

One hundred sixty-two navy recruits who call themselves the Avengers of Pearl Harbor were sworn into service in a colorful Chicago ceremony on the Congress street plaza. They took their country's oath of service while the news of the great American sea victory at Midway Island was still coming in.

Patriotic Americans, many of them kinsmen and friends of the recruits, thronged the plaza when Dennis Day of the radio world opened the services with the song, "God Bless America."

Untold thousands joined in the ceremony as radio listeners when the program was broadcast by W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system.

A mother who has given two sons to the navy service, Mrs. Joseph Patterson of 2858 38th place, christened the U. S. S. I Will, the replica of the forecastle of a ship, which had been installed at the plaza. Her son, William, 19 years old, was one of the recruits—the first to enlist in the June campaign that brought the enrollment of those inducted yesterday. Another son, Harold, 24, is now on sea duty.

10,000 Gobs Is June Goal.

Commander Philip R. Weaver, inspector of navy recruiting here, expressed the fighting spirit of the crowd.

"Today's communiques indicate that our men in the Pacific also remember Pearl Harbor," he said. "But our war has not even begun."

Victor C. P. Dreiske, general chairman of the June recruiting campaign, said the goal for June is 10,000 new bluejackets from the Chicago area.

The oath was administered by Lieut. David N. Goldenson, recruiting officer for the Chicago area. Amid the cheers of the throng, the new members of Uncle Sam's navy marched away to board a train for the Great Lakes Naval Training station.

Many Chicagoans who did not attend the induction observed the attack on Pearl Harbor by standing at attention—facing west—at 1:25 p. m.

It's a Doubly Patriotic Week!

The day also marked the beginning of two other patriotic observances—Flag Week and Dedication to Victory Week.

Hundreds of Chicagoans took part in a patriotic gathering at which a wreath was laid upon the statue of Benjamin Franklin at the foot of Webster avenue in Lincoln Park, a statue that was dedicated June 6, 1896, by the late Joseph Medill, former editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

The service was in charge of the Advertising Men's Post of the American Legion, the Chicago Federated Advertising club, the University of Pennsylvania Chicago Alumni association, and the Benjamin Franklin Club of Chicago. The army, navy, and marines furnished a color guard.

Gov. Dwight H. Green, who proclaimed Dedication to Victory week as a state observance, opened its program in a radio broadcast from WBBM. Speaking from Springfield, he said:

"During the next eight days, 550 county, area, and municipal defense councils are asking the eight million citizens of our state to give thought to greater national unity. We must have greater effort and greater attainment for the victory which shall be ours."

Laval Takes Control of French Veterans Legion

Police Find Son for Mother; Youth Escapes at Depot

Mrs. Dorothy Yeargin of Yonkers, N. Y., stepped up to a ticket window in the La Salle street station yesterday to buy tickets to New York. As she did so her son, John Mordaunt, 16 years old, whom she had taken from police custody only a few minutes before, fled from the station and disappeared. The youth left home May 11 and his whereabouts were unknown until she received a card from him containing a picture of the Chicago Y. M. C. A. hotel lounge. She notified police, who found him sleeping there.

ARMY FINISHES TASK OF MOVING 100,000 JAPS

Completes Western Job on Schedule.

San Francisco, Cal., June 7 (AP).—Completion of the job of moving the western seaboard's entire Japanese population of about 100,000 from its homes was announced today, a mass movement described officially as without precedent in American history. A mere handful of ill or otherwise incapacitated persons and a small number considered irreplaceable in their work remained at liberty today in the 150 mile wide strip of the three coast states and Arizona which was their home when war began.

Thousands Go Inland.

Most of the 99,770 who were removed were congregated in 17 assembly centers, receiving points established by the army to make quick control possible pending the necessarily slower arrangements for permanent resettlement.

Some thousands already have gone to inland relocation centers, of which three are ready. Others are being built and sites for more are being acquired. A number have volunteered for farm work on private lands in the interior.

Voluntary Plan Fails.

The inland movement began as a voluntary migration after President Roosevelt authorized the army to remove aliens or citizens from certain areas as a military measure, but this soon developed into a haphazard, unmanageable affair. An order issued March 29 by Lieut. Gen. J. L. De Witt, chief of the western defense command, branded it a failure.

Thereafter the military took full charge, executing the entire operation in a little less than two months.

LABORERS UNION FIRES AGENT IN ZILLER SCANDAL

National and local leaders of the powerful Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers union yesterday stepped out from under the recent Ziller job sale scandal by dismissing Tony Augustino, for more than 25 years general representative of the organization and head of the Joliet local.

Altho it was understood Augustino's dismissal came as a direct result of his dealings with George W. Ziller, promoter who acted as go-between for certain politicians and was accused of taking money from thousands of men he brought into the Joliet local and then placed in jobs on government munitions plants, the Chicago leaders also were reported dissatisfied because they had not been given a larger share of jobs for their members.

Joseph Moreschi, general president of the union, told of Augustino's dismissal in a letter to contractors and others, it was said, in which he stated the Joliet leader's credentials had been "recalled, revoked, and canceled."

YOUNG WOMAN DIES OF BURNS.

Miss Regina Doig, 17 years old, 17 West Hubbard street, died last night in the County hospital of burns suffered May 19 when she was scalded by a kettle of boiling water which she accidentally tipped over in the kitchen of her home.

HARVARD PREXY BLAMES UTOPIAN SCHEMES IN WAR

Cambridge, Mass., June 7 (AP).—Dr. James B. Conant, president of Harvard university, told the graduating class today that the nation should "proceed cautiously in painting too rosy a picture of the world or even of the United States after the war is over."

"To some who view the present chaos in the light of the follies of the last 20 years no small measure of blame must be laid at the door of the prevalent utopian philosophy," he said in a baccalaureate sermon.

"Dreams based on a misconception of a total situation are bound to produce a severe reaction. When impossible ideals are set before men's minds, no harvests except bitter disillusionment and cynicism can be expected."

Chicago Exceeds Its Navy Relief Quota by $227,000

Chicago has contributed more than $557,000 to the Navy Relief fund, exceeding the quota of $330,000 and completing the drive in less than a month, Kent Chandler, acting chairman of the campaign, announced yesterday.

STRUCK BY CHUNK OF COAL, DIES.

Orden, Ill., June 7 (Special).—Edward A. Bradley, 60 years old, died last night of injuries suffered May 25 when struck on the head by a chunk of coal while unloading a truck.

WE'RE GOING BACK TO BATAAN!

SIX MONTHS OF WAR.

America is winning the war.

Six months ago yesterday the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor. Six months ago today congress declared war. At Pearl Harbor our forces were surprised and suffered a sévere defeat, with heavy loss of life. A full accounting of our material losses has never been given, but beyond all question this was the severest naval reverse in point of tonnage lost ever suffered in our national history.

For months the bad news continued to flow. Our side lost Hongkong, Malaya, Singapore, the Dutch islands. The Japanese seized Burma and closed the road which had been used to supply the Chinese. The enemy advanced to a position where he threatened India and Australia. The Philippines fell to the invader after heroic resistance on the Bataan peninsula and Corregidor. Never before in American history had so large a force under our flag been obliged to surrender.

Meanwhile, too, we have suffered heavy shipping losses off our own coast, and are making slow, if any, progress toward overcoming the submarine menace.

But the tide has turned. We licked the pants off the Japanese in the battle of the Coral sea a month ago and now comes the glorious news of the triumph of our airmen off Midway. Adm. Nimitz has declared publicly that the strength of the Japanese navy has been cut in half. The enemy fleet has withdrawn and is being harried as it flees.

The American people have read in their newspapers the box score of enemy vessels sunk. The number of battleships damaged is large but none the less insignificant. The day of the battleship is past. The decisive weapon in naval warfare today is the airplane. The airplane won for us as it had previously won for the Germans off Norway and Crete and for the Japanese at Pearl Harbor. When we got the Japanese carriers in the Coral sea and off Midway the victories were ours. The rest was just mopping up.

We have shown now, in two engagements, that our air crews, our carriers, and our planes are vastly superior to anything the enemy can muster on the high seas. Tojo has lost his best chance. He might have seized Hawaii at the first thrust six months ago, but tho the Japs at the start of the war had a clearer idea of the new naval strategy than was current in Washington the enemy had not wholly discarded the old concepts. Otherwise their landing force would have been close behind on Dec. 7 to take advantage of our disorganization. They gave us a precious six months in which to reorganize, and because they had sunk our heavy ships forced us to place our main reliance upon the carriers. It was for us a most fortunate turn.

Today we know that, except for the men who were killed and wounded at Pearl Harbor, the damage we suffered was insignificant. If we had lost instead an equal tonnage of cast iron stove lids the difference, so far as the outcome of the war is concerned, would have been negligible.

We have the Japs on the run and it is to be hoped that we do not give them the same opportunity to reorganize that they gave us. Now is the time to drive ahead relentlessly—pushing our advantage for all it is worth. Now is the time to advance from island to island toward Japan, establishing air fields as we go. It may be doubted that we can afford to risk our carriers within easy range of their principal aviation bases, but we can take the strategic islands and we ought to lose no time about starting. If we concentrate on the job we ought, by the first anniversary of Pearl Harbor and perhaps much sooner, to find ourselves in a position to bomb the Japanese homeland from island bases.

We have overwhelming superiority in the capacity to produce airplanes. Given land bases from which to operate them we can knock out the Japanese air arm, Japanese industry, and Japanese communications by land and sea. When that has been accomplished the Japanese must yield if they want to have any of their country left when the war is over.

The opportunity is ours to concentrate now against Japan and knock her out of the war before many more months have rolled around. The Japanese war should have first priority on all military equipment needed to win it.

We can reorganize our schedules in reasonable confidence that the situation in Europe will not get out of hand. Russia thus far this spring has held Hitler. We can continue to send help of many kinds to Russia, tho the quantities in a few categories may have to be revised downward. As for the British, the stupendous raids against Germany in recent weeks are an assurance that Britain is secure as least as long as Germany must concentrate her strength against Russia—and that means for many months to come even if Hitler wins in the east.

If Germany is successful in Russia and if Japan is able to subjugate the Chinese our victory may be delayed. Unexpected difficulties may arise, but when all this has been said it is still true that after six months of war things are looking up. Thanks to our republican way of life we have supremacy in industry and, more especially, we have the best of fighting men. The military aristocracies have nothing with which to match our high school and college boys. Our youngsters have what it takes. Generations of political and economic freedom have put America on top.

We are going back to Bataan. We are going on to Tokio. God willing, the victory will not be too long delayed.

SORGHUM MEETS THE BUROCRATS.

Down in the sugar region of Louisiana the cane planters this year have put 7,500 acres in sorgo, a plant which is more familiar to middle western farmers under the name of sorghum. It yields a high percentage of sugar and can be grown anywhere that a crop of corn will mature. Whereas formerly it was grown largely for sirup for domestic use or for forage, the Louisiana planting of sorgo is designed to yield sirup which can be converted into alcohol for numerous war uses, including the manufacture of synthetic rubber.

One great advantage of the sorgo crop is that it matures in August and thus can be processed in the same mills which process sugar cane before the cane crop is harvested in October. The proponents of sorgo planting say that any farmer within 24 hours' shipping distance of a mill, either in the cane or beet regions, can grow sorgo and have it converted for industrial alcohol distillation without placing any additional burden on existing plants for milling cane and beet sugar.

The sorgo planting scheme was not adopted without running afoul of a mass of government red tape. Wallace C. Kemper, president of the American Sugar Cane league, which backed the venture, says that as late as March 7 the sorgo enthusiasts were still haggling with eight or nine federal agencies. That is a fair index of the extent to which the burocracy has got its fingers on American agriculture. The farmers themselves are not without blame. They have accepted and their leaders have solicited the subsidies which are the bribe for that burocratic control. Little men in Washington, arrogant for power and presumptuous in the substitution of their half-baked theories for the common sense of the American farmer, have done the rest.

The sorgo growing campaign could have made a substantial contribution to the war effort and at the same time reduced materially the diversion of sugar which has forced sugar rationing on the nation. But by the time little minds in the Washington bureaus had got thru with it the program was reduced to insignificance.

BELLEAU WOOD.

Twenty-four years ago the marines went thru the wheat and across the rolling grass land and into the forbidding recesses of a black, rocky wilderness that is remembered for death and victory as Belleau Wood. Twenty days later the commanding officer of the 3d battalion, 5th marines, sent back the famous field message, "Woods now United States marine corps' entirely."

When the great German attack of May 27 on the Chemin des Dames rolled to a standstill the night of June 3, 1918, it had carried forward 30 miles to Château-Thierry, 40 miles due east of Paris on the historic Paris-Metz highway. The Paris road had been a trail of empire for centuries. The armies of Caesar, Attila, Turenne, and Napoleon had followed it, and now again Germany saw it as the road to conquest.

To halt the German advance, Marshal Foch called upon the 2d American division, which was unique in that it had but one infantry brigade. Its other foot soldier brigade was composed of two regiments of marines. The division, untried in action, piled into trucks early on May 31, and, upon reaching the front at midnight, found it completely fluid. The Germans had seized Hill 204, to the west of Château-Thierry, and Vaux, astraddle the Paris road. By June 2 they had driven the French from Belleau Wood, and that same night the beaten troops retreated thru the new line held by the 2d division.

At 3 a. m. on June 6 the 1st battalion of the 5th marines attacked in conjunction with the French on its left. The marine attack carried with a blind rush over the wooded top of Hill 165 and its flanking slopes for a gain of a kilometer and a half, bringing the 2d division's left around until it faced the west border of Belleau Wood. The wood bristled with machine guns, and German artillery fire had completely wiped out all field telephone communications, but nevertheless orders were given to storm the wood that evening.

At 5 p. m. the 3d battalion of the 5th marines rose from their fox holes and started thru 400 yards of open wheat field for the western face of the woods. Terrible machine gunfire broke the attack except at the southwestern tip of the woods, where a lodgment was made. But on the right, where the 3d battalion of the 6th marines crossed the grass land to assault the south face of the woods, the lines closed in on the woods, and a savage close quarters fight developed in the shadows. By 7:30 o'clock German prisoners were streaming out, and by 9, four hours after the jump-off, the whole southern edge of the woods had been cleared and the eastern edge was in sight. Confronted there by nests of machine guns in knolls covered by boulders as big as houses, the marines dug in and hung on.

Meanwhile, in the third phase of the attack, the 96th company of the 2d battalion, 6th marines, stormed the village of Bouresches, southeast of Belleau Wood, and a lieutenant and 20 men survived to clear all of the village except the section around the railroad station. There for days Americans and Germans dwelt almost within arm's reach.

Resistance within the woods was so stiff that the marines withdrew to the southern edge until an artillery barrage could soften up the Germans. By June 11 two-thirds of the woods had been gained. Two days later a strong German counterattack against the whole Bouresches-Belleau Wood line was shattered, but on June 16 the exhausted marines were withdrawn and replaced by elements of the 3d division. They returned to finish the job, however, on the night of June 23, and in their final attack two days later captured 500 prisoners and shoved the last of the Germans out of the woods and into the open.

The infantry brigade completed the task of the 2d division on July 1. It had held the right of the divisional line thru the month, staging raids of its own and planning carefully for its own first attack. Its assignment was to retake the fortified village of Vaux. The village mason, a refugee, was consulted and provided a painstaking account of every construction detail of every house in town. From prisoners and raiding experience, the infantry located every strong point in the village.

Each battery of artillery was assigned a specific house or section of trench, and when the barrage went off every gun was dead on its target. An hour later, when the barrage lifted to the slopes back of town and the infantry swarmed in, the dazed defenders hardly had time to pull themselves from their dugouts before the Americans were upon them. The attack quickly swept thru the village and attained the objective on the slopes beyond.

Thruout 25 days the 2d division maintained a punishing offensive that took the fight out of three German divisions and threw back the German line all along the divisional front. During the month it took 1,678 prisoners, more than did the entire British army during the same period, and suffered 9,777 casualties, of whom 1,811 were killed. Belleau Wood is an unforgettable chapter in American heroism. Twenty-four years have gone, and it is past, but the fighting men of our young army are writing and will write the same kind of epic of valor.

Every time Washington announces the U-boat menace is finally under control, something worse occurs. Now they're crawling up the rivers to spawn.—Detroit News.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

OF THE STREETS AND TOWN.

Dudley Crafts Watson, lantern-lecturing at a Cliff Dwellers party, proclaimed that even Chicago's west side had become beautiful. He had made this discovery on a pioneering ride around the park system. Well, anyway, on clear days some of the far west side streets provide remarkable distant views of the shoreline skyscrapers.

* * *

The old custom of looking around the town and writing about it has been in abeyance, more or less, for a long term of years. From 1920 until 1930 attention was absorbed by speakeasies, gangsters, and the stock market. From 1930 until 1940 life seemed to be limited by the depression, the New Deal, and what the wild Europeans were saying. From 1940 until [date variable] is an era dedicated to the total War. . . . The stories of the streets and town will continue to be unwritten.

* * *

A few years ago a forgotten man, or a ragged stranger, or unknown white-collar man out of a job sat on a cement ledge by the peristyle at the north end of Grant park—a quiet place close to a roaring crossroads of city life. He was reading an old newspaper, or watching the pigeons, or daydreaming of an escape from his boredom. Suddenly a heavy ornamental iron lantern fell off its brackets and killed him. . . . A witness to this strange little tragedy tells us that he never saw the victim's name in print.

* * *

There was a ship that used to tie up at Navy pier several times a year—a trim little Atlantic freighter that carried a few passengers, too, in neat cabins. Thousands of Chicagoans have seen her without bothering to ask her name. We have visited her and talked with her captain—a marine officer of the type you meet in Joseph Conrad's tales. . . . That ship and its captain are on the bottom now, victims of a submarine. But we cannot mention their names.

ATLANTIC CONVOY.

Early and surly the gray Atlantic morning
Breaks on the crest of restless waters rolling,
On gray leviathans of burden, scorning
The dangered day ahead, and on patrolling

Greyhounds of lithe, low-funneled scrutiny
That cruise and cross in the peril-laden light,
Intent to save these plodders of the sea

With every billow that nears some treachery flies on
Its flickering fins of pearl and amethyst.

And who but Neptune, who but Davy Jones
Shall scale the score 'twixt sub, and ship, and plane,
Or tot the tally of glimmering keels and bones
Another day's dread sunset shall attain? . . .

Sleekly and bleakly looms the Atlantic darkness;
Yet ride, thank God, no fewer in the gloaming,
Salvation's shapes in all their straggled starkness—

History of the Gold Coast—VI.

The first great event in the history of this part of Chicago took place in August, 1821, when over 3,000 Ottawas, Chippewas, and Potawatomis came to negotiate the treaty of 1821. The Indians covered the prairies with their camps and the nights were bright with the light of their fires. The negotiations were carried on in a large arbor on the north bank directly opposite the fort. Ish-kat-e-wabo [whisky] and ash-con-te-nebesh [firewater] flowed like water. There was much oratory, windy palaver, and grave deliberation, and when it was over they had parted with a large tract of land directly across the lake in Michigan territory.

This same year John Walls arrived to survey the canal tract for the U. S. land office. He ran the lines dividing the township of Chicago into sections. These section lines became the principal streets in later years. He also ran the meanders of the lake shore and both banks of the river and its branches. His delineation of the lake shore north of the river, the north bank of the river as far as the beginning of the first bend [now State street], and the line of that street until it met the lake shore at about North avenue became the boundaries of the district which was to become the Gold Coast.

One of the dreams of Chicago settlers since the days of the French explorers was a canal between the Chicago and Desplaines rivers. Another was a safe harbor. The first was a costly and laborious matter, but the second could easily be provided by the river itself if a cut were made thru the sand spit between it and the lake. The river, near its mouth, was about 200 feet wide and from 15 to 30 feet deep. Its banks were low except at the fort and the Kinzie store. There was little current except in times of heavy rains, thaws, and spring floods, when high water would carve a deep channel thru the bar at its mouth and overflow the banks.

At this time Fort Dearborn was under command of the energetic Capt. Hezekiah Bradley, who had rebuilt it. The captain put his men to work cutting a channel thru the spit in the hope that it would remain open and permit ships to come into the river. But the lake and the river had minds of their own, and they promptly closed the channel with sand and gravel.

With the coming of the winter the excitement of the year died away. The troops were withdrawn from the fort in 1823 and it was turned over to the Indian department. Chicago relapsed into somnolence once more. Captain John.

THE AMERICAN ELM.

Elm trees are beautiful, soul-stirring things:
Magnificent fans swaying gracefully slow,
Green fountains of water from urns of rich brown,
Arising in torrents with emerald glow,
Tall vases which flare their curved lines in the sky,
And harps of the forest whose leaf-entwined strings
Elm trees are beautiful, soul-touching things.

RATIONING OF CONDIMENTS HEALTHFUL.

CONDIMENTS are not foods. There isn't as much nourishment in a bottle of pepper sauce as in a teaspoonful of milk. We employ these delectable concoctions for the purpose of stimulating appetite and providing flavors which we relish.

Not infrequently these preparations supply something which edibles should furnish—namely, an enticing taste. Thus, they may render palatable dishes which are poorly prepared or cover up actual spoilage.

After a time confirmed addicts find that the sense of taste has become dulled. We can so irritate the nerve endings on the tongue that they will refuse to respond to stimuli. Everything will seem flat and uninviting unless some spicy material is added to give it zest.

As a rule, most of us eat too much. In order to make nutriment attractive, good cooks endeavor to evolve toothsome menus. Hunger is whetted altho it may not exist naturally. While invalids require considerable assistance in this matter most of us should be able to enjoy our rations without artificial aids.

What is the effect of strong seasoning upon the mucous membrane of the mouth, esophagus, and stomach? In any appreciable amount, inflammation ensues. In fact, this seems to be what is desired. A congested gastric lining sets up a shout for more provender. In this fashion, a false sense of need is created. In the remarkable experiments conducted by William Beaumont upon Alexis St. Martin, he showed that whenever pepper, mustard, etc. were introduced into the gastric pouch the capillaries dilated and the entire area changed from normal pink to deep red.

Certain volatile oils possess irritating qualities which are undesirable from the standpoint of health. We know what a mustard bath will do to a baby's skin and we can visualize what a fair sized dose will do to the sensitive cells of the digestive apparatus.

Even salt can be used to excess. Here again it is a matter of habit. Without tasting the viands, some will shake the container vigorously. As a result, water is held within the tissues which should be eliminated because the saline material demands solution.

But there is reason in all things. We would have difficulty in relishing sausage without a bit of sage. Furthermore, we would miss a number of herbs such as thyme, tansy, mint, summer savory, rue, anise, sweet flag, and many others.

We must not forget that many vegetables carry their own essences. Onions are an excellent treat for those who can digest them. And what salad bowl would be complete without rubbing the inside of the receptacle with a sliver of garlic.

It is important, however, to keep in mind that we can become slaves to condiments, some of which may be harmful. It is easy to understand that any substance potent enough to inflame even a portion of the alimentary tract will only add to the burdens of the liver and the kidneys. For the most part, we can practice the culinary art in such a manner that nourishment will not need reinforcement.

DEMOCRACY AND SOCIALISM.

Wichita, Kas., June 2.—Democracy, what fantastic experiments are perpetrated in thy name! Parlor socialists advocate socialistic democracy, a contradiction of terms. Democracy limits the functions of government to the minimum that is consistent with preservation of law and order. Socialism, on the contrary, multiplies without limit the functions of government, with corresponding suppression of the individual, his rights, and his property. These two philosophies of government are diametrically opposed to one another. You can't follow both Karl Marx and Henry George at the same time. For democracy, go to Switzerland; for socialism, go to Germany.

Here are two examples of democracy in action. During Jefferson's first term as President he cut down the number of federal office holders 50 per cent, and reduced the national debt by nearly 30 million dollars. When Grover Cleveland was President he vetoed a bill appropriating $25,000 for relief of unfortunate farmers on two grounds: First, because such a measure would be unconstitutional, and, secondly, because it was the province of the people to support the government, but not of the government to support the people! State socialism is inherently a deadly enemy of Jeffersonian democracy.

PENNIES FOR WAR STAMPS.

Chicago, June 3—A recent article signed "Provoked" voiced my sentiments in regard to teachers refusing to accept pennies in payment for defense stamps.

Several teachers in Avalon Park school also have refused pennies and tell the children to go to nearby stores to secure nickels or dimes in exchange, thus working a hardship on the children as well as the storekeeper. Pennies are legal money of the United States and should not be refused. MRS. C. J. MYERS.

WOULDN'T TAKE HER DIMES.

Chicago, June 2.—I went to the federal building last week to pay second instalment of income tax with dimes, I was informed by a listless clerk that he wouldn't take the time to count the dimes, altho he was standing around talking with two other clerks, with nothing to do but twiddle their thumbs. I happened to be the only one at the window. Is this just the height of laziness or just one of the things you have to contend with?

DISGUSTED.

DINGY VICTORY MONUMENT.

Chicago, May 27.—It does seem as if it should occur to the park board that it would help war morale if they would let the WPA scrub that fine victory monument at 35th street and South Park way. Won't somebody wash this monument or tear it down? It's a disgrace.

MARSHALL BEYMER.

PAYMENT DEFERRED.

Chicago, May 26.—The urgent need of money to bring the war to a successful end is apparent to all. I feel that the sale of war securities can be appreciatively stepped up by making returns of winnings to race track bettors payable to them in defense savings stamps.

CHARLES EICHIN.

TYING THE HANDS OF PURCHASING AGENTS.

Chicago, May 21.—Here is definite proof of how a silly un-American state law interferes with war production. I am in receipt of the latest information on the selling of bicycles, which is one of the items we carry. With a priority rating of A-10 or better, any purchasing agent of a plant doing war work can purchase bicycles for their employes, a most necessary means of transportation today. I am prepared to notify our thousands of accounts, which include most of the leading manufacturers of war production, to this fact, but I immediately recall that recently a law had been passed in the legislature, house bill 329, which prohibits a purchasing agent from ordering merchandise for a company's employés.

When this law was passed last July 1 I sent out 50,000 letters showing the un-American, ridiculous nature of this bill. Gov. Green did not sign it. Now I cannot take advantage of the bicycle situation, via the purchasing agents of war plants, so that we can get this transportation in the hands of war workers. I accuse the majority of the legislature of not studying bills before passing, with the fundamental principles of common sense and American free enterprise in mind. BEN KALLIS.

WAR CHEST.

Chicago, June 2.—The Community Chest can be made to function as a war chest for the duration—taking care of local charities as well as national drives—USO, Red Cross, China, and Russian relief, etc.

Contributions could be earmarked by donors and the balance of quotas be assigned out of general funds.

No appeal can be worthy if it cannot get into the war chest drive, and if it has a very popular appeal it will help the chest. You are on the right track. Keep after them and save the time and money of every one. MARY S. LAMM.

CATCH BASINS.

Chicago, May 30.—A word of warning to homeowners who are approached by men wanting to clean out their catch basin. These men scared my wife into having a lot of unnecessary work done on our catch basin and charged her $12 for about half hour's work. I have talked to experts and they all say that once in 10 years is often enough to have the catch basin cleaned. JOHN B. GILMORE.

OPA POLICING EXPENSE.

Chicago, May 25.—I can't see the sense of putting 90,000 to 100,000 people in the field to police the price ceilings, when they will not produce one single item to win the war, but will only consume 200 million dollars of our tax money.

MISS BERNICE E. BURBULIS.

DUTCH TREAT ON SUGAR.

OLDEST CEMETERY?

Chicago, June 4.—Not far from the river Kankakee in the county of that name is an old burying ground, called the Beebetown cemetery. It is located on a small knoll back from the river road. Wild growth such as live forever, myrtle, blackberry bushes, and various vines clothe the tombstones that stand as sentinels over the rich cornland nearby. Here lies the dust of real Illinois pioneers, and of this number are some of my wife's ancestors. While looking over these graves that must have known Indian visitors I came across two with the years of burial 1815 and 1819 cut on the stones. I wonder if there is anything as old or older in any Chicago cemetery?

AWAITING HIS PEARL HARBOR CALL.

Standish, Mich., June 1—I volunteered for service right after the Japs bombed Pearl Harbor, when the navy was begging for civilian workers to go to the naval base out there. The Detroit office of civil service sent a special examiner to my town to check my qualifications, with the result that I passed with a rating of 98. The examiner told me on Jan. 9, the day I was given the examination, that I would be called at once. Well, I am still waiting the call. So why all the clamor now about the navy seeking 10,000 recruits? I am a sheet metal worker with 35 years' experience.

"A PLACE IN LITERATURE."

Chicago, May 28.—Your editorial, "The Power and Glory of This Land," in which you pay tribute to Mrs. Anne O'Hare McCormick, is worthy of approval. It rings true. It expresses the sentiment of all individuals who believe that, with all of its faults, the United States is far ahead of any other nation.

The sentiments and the method of expressing them rank with that of Gen. MacArthur's first speech in Australia. Both should be given a place in modern American literature.

RATION SCARED NEW ZEALANDERS RUSHING TO BUY

Start Run on Linens, Soap and Cosmetics.

BY QUENTIN POPE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, June 7.—Stung into the realization of impending shortages by the government rationing of clothes, sugar and tea, New Zealanders staged a buying orgy last week which indicated that further rationing is possible, not because stocks are short, but merely to prevent hoarding.

The government's revelation of the clothing rationing provoked an immediate shoppers' rush, many persons apparently acting on the principle that rationing meant an immediate shortage of supplies.

Despite newspaper warnings of the wisdom of long term budgeting, the buying wave continued, housewives stocking up on many materials, especially household linens, which appeared momentarily to be excluded from the controls.

A Rush to Buy Soap.

The ration scale, which was immensely more generous than the British, might have been expected to allay fears, but during the week rumors spreads that other commodities soon would be covered by restrictions. Thereafter there were daily queues at cosmetics counters in the big stores and also a rush to buy soap.

The decision to limit the ration of tea to two ounces per person weekly threw emphasis upon coffee and cocoa, for which the demand mounted to a point where the stores began imposing their own unofficial ration schemes.

Today soap makers ridiculed reports that there is likely to be soap rationing, saying the essential supplies are here for long term manufacturing. The grocers, also, disclosed that many months' supplies of coffee still are held, while the government is making foreign exchange available for the continuance of imports.

Provide Own Linens.

The country now is snarled in the difficulties of working out its first rationing setup in history.

The restaurants complain that they are unable to service the world's heaviest tea drinkers with the available supplies.

An especial snag is the rationing of household linen.

Rooming houses are demanding that people provide their own bed linen and do their own laundering.

The situation of wartime wedded couples is especially unhappy. The newspapers suggest that the rationing controler must make special allowances for newlyweds so that they may set up housekeeping.

Chicago takes a holiday right here at home

This summer you'll do your star gazing at the Planetarium and stalk wild life with a camera at Brookfield Zoo. You'll happily forego glass bottomed boats and the seasickness that goes with them for deep sea life behind the glass walls of Shedd Aquarium. You'll investigate the charm of Maxwell Street, the permanent exhibits of the Art Institute (which you realize you haven't looked at since you left school). You'll select places to dine with the care you'd use in a strange city, and dress accordingly. And you'll wonder why it never occurred to you to do this before, it's such fun to go about in the smart, Chicago-wise wardrobe you've selected at Marshall Field & Company.

DEFENSE SQUAD SHOWS HOW TO DEADEN A BOMB

Thick clouds of smoke belched from the flask as it smashed in a cleared circle in Kennedy park yesterday afternoon. As the wind whipped the fumes toward the spectators, five weird figures plunged into the smoke and went to work.

Armed with pressure sprayers and brooms, equipped with gas masks, and protected from head to foot with black rubber suits, the decontamination squad made short work of cleaning up the smoke bomb.

The squad is one of 18 organized by Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works, as part of Chicago's civilian defense machine and the demonstration was one of the highlights of a program held in the Morgan Park community.

Treated Like Dangerous Gas.

While the smoke bomb was harmless and its fumes were not annoying, the squad treated it like mustard gas or Lewisite—the two favorite war gases of the axis.

Thru a loudspeaker system, Harry Hagedorn, chemical engineer of the bureau of public works, explained to the crowd of 600 persons why and how a decontamination squad works.

"Either mustard or Lewisite gas fumes come from a liquid scattered when the bomb explodes," he said. "This liquid is potent for a period ranging from one day in summer or two weeks in winter.

Sticks to Everything.

"This liquid, which sticks to everything, can penetrate ordinary clothing in seconds; it will go thru heavy rubber clothing, like this squad wears, in an hour; the burns it causes last for months. Stay away from it!"

He explained how the squad first throws sand on the liquid to smother the fumes. Then water is played over it to decompose the mixture. Lime slurry, mixed in a barrel, neutralizes the poison and finally what remains is flushed into the nearest sewer.

After decontaminating the poisoned area, the squad decontaminates its clothing and tools and the area is once more safe for humans, Hagedorn, who studied chemical warfare in a special army course, related.

Hewitt Sees Good Start.

Hewitt, who watched the exhibition, said he was satisfied Chicago at least has a start toward a machine to handle the damage caused by any token air raid.

The Morgan Park High school band, the Morgan Park Military academy drum corps, and the Beverly Hills American Legion post drum and bugle corps and drill team participated in the parade, which stressed the objectives of the civilian defense program.

EDISON COMPANY EMPLOYES GIVE $39,647 TO USO

The Commonwealth Edison company and employés contributed $39,647 to the United Service organizations war fund, Holman D. Pettibone, general campaign chairman, said yesterday. This was the largest donation received thus far and with other receipts raised the total to $500,512 or 28 per cent of the $1,749,432 quota for the Chicago district.

Other contributions were General American Transportation corporation, $5,000; Chicago Bridge and Iron company, $3,000; The Visking company and Mars, Inc., $2,500 each, and the Hyman-Michaels company, National Lead company, Union Stock Yards and Transit company and J. Greenebaum Tanning company, $1,000 each.

Army Bomber Falls in Surf Off N. J.; Five Aboard Safe

Margate City, N. J., June 8 [Monday]—(AP).—An army bomber piloted by Capt. Morris Fitzgerald, who was credited two weeks ago with sinking an enemy submarine, crashed early today in the surf 50 feet off this resort beach, but all five occupants were saved. Capt. Fitzgerald and Mechanic-Pvt. Walter B. Egoff stayed in the plane as it was forced down by lack of gasoline. The co-pilot, Lieut. R. W. Depke; the radio man, Sergt. F. R. Luke, and a passenger, Lieut. Col. Borror, bailed out. Coast guardsmen who rescued those who landed in the surf said none of the five was seriously injured.

THE QUESTION.

Did you ever borrow or lend something and wish you hadn't?

WHERE ASKED.

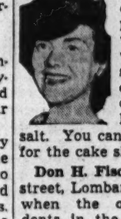
THE ANSWERS.

Paul R. Klingsporn, wholesale florist, 6159 Winthrop avenue—It didn't surprise me any when I didn't get back the money I had lent, but the part that I didn't like was that the borrower spent more than ever and was as lazy as could be until he was broke again. I figure neither one of us gained by the double loss.



Patricia M. Noel, schoolteacher, 4837 North Christiana avenue—When the neighbor rang my doorbell I had been playing the piano and was quite engrossed with it. She asked if she could borrow a cup of sugar and to the tune of my last refrain I handed her a cup of salt. You can imagine what that did for the cake she was making.

Don H. Fischer, student, 332 Grace street, Lombard—I was a sorry lender when the other students in the geometry class borrowed my finished examination papers and then failed to return them to me in time for the deadline. I flunked and the others made their best grades of the season.

Lillian Van Krum, sales representative, 295 Central Park West, New York City—When I offered my good friend and his car as an escort for the girl that night I thought it was just a temporary loan, but she was playing for keeps, and he didn't mind. They were married and naturally she never returned the loan.

Bernice Krezer, salesgirl, 5518 Congress street—My neighbor knew I was going to be home alone all day and offered her pet canary for pleasant company. She said I could even let him out of the cage for awhile. I have a cat, too, and I didn't think. From there on it's the old cat and canary story.

Edward Zelman, optician, 1336 Roosevelt road—My cousin asked to wear my new suit for his one day visit in the city. He wore it and the next day I put it on and wore it to the office. I didn't understand the unusual amount of attention I was getting until that night when my wife pointed out the zigzag rip in the seat of the suit!

War Duty Scatters Members of Evanston Junior League

BY JUDITH CASS.

EVANSTON Junior league members are scattering to the four corners as their husbands leave for service with the army or navy. Mrs. E. Robbins Kimball Jr., the former Alicia Barber, is doing canteen work for a Junior league in Texas, where she went with her husband, Lieut. Kimball, now of the army medical corps.

Mrs. J. H. Sheldon Lee Jr. left on Thursday for Washington to join Capt. Lee, who is in the office of the United States army inspector general. The Lees' little daughter has gone back to Ardmore, Pa., with her grandmother, Mrs. Graham Patterson, who was a recent visitor to Chicago, and will be there until her parents have a home in Washington. Mrs. Gardiner B. Van Ness Jr., hopes to be able to join Lieut. Van Ness, but he is now on overseas duty with the navy.

Moves to Seattle to Be with Aviator Husband.

Mrs. George Schulz and her children have gone to Seattle to be with Lieut. Schulz of the A. V. S., and Mrs. Richard Cragg and her little daughter have an apartment in Norfolk, Va., for the summer. Her husband is on sea duty as a lieutenant, junior grade. Mrs. Joseph Moller's husband now is Maj. Moller of the army air corps. He was a lieutenant in the last war.

Other league husbands who recently have been commissioned are Capt. William Ward of the army engineers; Ensign Francis G. Fabian Jr., U. S. N. R.; Lieut. Noel O'Reilly, U. S. naval supply; Maj. Donald Bradford and Capt. Michael Mumma of army ordnance, and Lieut. John W. Taylor Jr. of the army finance department.

The Junior leaguers who have departed for their husbands' posts, of course, will miss today's summer luncheon at the Glen View club. In former years the Evanston league has held a sports field day along with its summer meeting. This year an exhibit of painting, needle work, sculpture, table arrangements, and leather work done by its members and arranged by the arts and interest department has been substituted. Mrs. Chester Goltra is chairman of the exhibit, which Mrs. Katherine Lord and Miss Clara MacGowan will judge.

Of interest in Chicago is the announcement of the marriage on Saturday afternoon of Miss Margaret Havemeyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Havemeyer of Groton, Mass., formerly of Chicago, to Winchell Keller of Tucson, Ariz., and Cleveland. The wedding took place in the chapel of the Groton school with the rector, the Rev. John Crockett, officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Keller will spend the summer in Boulder, Colo., and will be in Tucson next winter.

Among the attendants was the former Julie Forgan, now Mrs. William S. Woodhull Jr., who is the bride's cousin.

The Chicago Council on Foreign Relations has cards out for a luncheon on Thursday at which the speaker will be Walter Nash, minister for New Zealand to the United States. After luncheon at 12:30 o'clock in the Grand ballroom of the Palmer House he will give a New Zealander's view of "The War and After." Mr. Nash has been engaged in politics for his country since 1919, becoming minister of finance in 1935. In 1941 he was acting prime minister in the absence of the prime minister.

Seven year old John Michael Kohler Jr. and his brother, Collins, who is four, soon will have a baby sister to play with in their home in Kohler, Wis. The third child of the John M. Kohlers [Julia House] was born last Thursday in Evanston hospital. The children are grandchildren of Mrs. Lilly W. House of Evansville, Ind., and of Mrs. Walter J. Kohler and the late Gov. Kohler. The John Kohlers lived here until five years ago.

George Pattisons Name Daughter Mary Susan.

Mr. and Mrs. George Henry Pattison II. [Mary Leone Barrett] have named their first child Mary Susan. The baby, who was born on June 2 at the Evanston hospital, bears the first name of her mother, grandmother, great-aunt, and great-grandmother, Mary Giddings, for whom the Mary Giddings circle of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid society was named. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barrett of Kenilworth and Mrs. George Pattison of Winnetka are the baby's grandparents.

Three young Chicagoans received honors at the graduating exercises over the week-end at Vassar college. Miss Audrey Bradford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold N. Bradford of Evanston, was awarded the Virginia Swinburne Brownell prize in physiology. Miss Norma Faricy, daughter of the William T. Faricys of Evanston, was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. Miss Eleanor Daughaday, daughter of the C. Colton Daughadays of Winnetka, a junior, was awarded a summer scholarship at the Woods Hole biological laboratory.

The Arts club will end its present exhibit on June 15, when the club rooms will be closed for the summer until Oct. 1.

The Service club, which usually holds its summer gathering in the country, will meet instead at the Casino club at 12:30 o'clock today for luncheon.

Brown alumni in and around Chicago will hear how the war has affected the university at their annual banquet at 6:30 o'clock tomorrow at Normandy house. Wartime news of the campus will be brought to the group by Dr. Bruce M. Bigelow, dean and director of admissions at the Providence, R. I., school. Among those with him at the speaker's table will be George B. Utley, Elmer T. Stevens, Edwin B. Mayer, James L. Palmer, David F. Watson Jr., Chester A. Cook, William Seymour, and Edwin L. Read Jr., president of the alumni club.

White Elephant Tea to Collect Camp Gifts.

The gifts which each guest will bring to a White Elephant tea this afternoon in Mrs. Robert Driscoll's Winnetka home will be used this summer as prizes for the mothers at the Arden Shore camp. The party, from 3 to 5 o'clock, will be given by the Winnetka committee of the Arden Shore association, of which Mrs. Samuel Clarke is chairman. Assisting Mrs. Driscoll will be Mrs. Roy Bard, Mrs. Martin Cassell, Mrs. Percy Greene, Mrs. William Joyce, and Mrs. Gerald Cleary.

Secor D. Browne is leaving today to enter the army air corps. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Aldis J. Browne, recently returned from Boston after a short visit with their daughter, "Chou Chou," a student at Milton academy. The Brownes' daughter is remaining in the east until about the Fourth of July, and her parents are making plans for another trip there soon.

Front VIEWS and PROFILES

BY KATE MASSEE

To the Navy.

Lois Crandall Musson, poetess of Wisconsin Dells, Wis., is pretty busy these days, along with her sister, Phyllis Crandall Connor, in arranging the magnificent Indian ceremonies at Stand Rock, a natural outdoor amphitheater, which will be sponsored during July and August by the Dells American Legion.

Mrs. Musson took time out the other day, however, to ship her valuable binoculars to the navy for the duration, and with them she enclosed the following poem:

EYES FOR THE NAVY.
Welcome to 'em, Uncle Sam,
We hope that ye can use 'em;
Don't bother, sir, about the rent
Or how much ye abuse 'em.
We're not a-thinkin', Uncle Sam,
Of anything we're givin',
Just lookin', Sir, for victory
An' freedom—this means livin'.

No Agrarian He.

When young John Hartigan, 8 year old son of Judge and Mrs. Matthew D. Hartigan, went to Minocqua, Wis., to visit his aunt, Mrs. Frank L. Cole, one of his first chores was to collect the daily supply of eggs. Upon finding two that had just been laid, he rushed into the house, exclaiming to Mrs. Cole: "These aren't quite done yet. I'd better put them back."

Diversion of Talent.

Navy Yeoman Robert Parsil, stationed at Great Lakes, was formerly a designer for one of America's largest glass industries, having originated some 65 prize winning creations. Eleven of them are in the permanent collection of the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York, and others are owned by other museums thruout the country. Yeoman Parsil is perhaps proudest of a decanter, ornamented with a treble clef, that he designed for a group of friends to present to Leopold Stokowski. But he's proud, too, of turning his talents these days toward designing those "cartoons" or posters which warn Americans not to talk loosely and thus give valuable information to the enemy.

New Version.

A contributor named Dewey has told us of the sweet old lady explaining to a friend that Nelson Algren's book, "Never Come Morning," which she was enjoying tremendously, was purchased in the belief that it was Rachel Field's new novel, "And Now Tomorrow."

Memories.

The current prominence of Cologne in the war news recalls to Emma Lee Walton the days of her childhood, when her father would reproduce the sound of "the bells of Cologne" to amuse the children. He used the simple expedient of tying a long string to a silver spoon, so that two ends were available. One end was held to each ear while the spoon clinked against a table edge. Some years later the members of the family visited Cologne and, while they were disappointed for the most part in the town and the cathedral, the bells were just as they remembered hearing them thru the strings and spoon.

Memos.

En route to work one breezy morning last week, Bobbe of Beverly Hills retrieved a business size envelope on which was written, in a masculine scrawl: "Ego is the lowest common denominator of man." Directly beneath the inscription, in a neatly feminine handwriting, were the notations: "Milk, oranges, bacon, rolls, and don't forget to call the doctor."

Maternity Center.

The board of the North Shore Service league of the Chicago Maternity center will meet with its president, Mrs. Robert Little of Evanston, from 2 to 4 o'clock today.

North Shore Board of N. U. Settlement Chooses Officers

The North Shore Junior board of the Northwestern University settlement will be headed for the coming year by Mrs. James M. Peirce of Evanston, who was elected to succeed Mrs. Robert G. Pearse at the group's annual meeting recently. Other new officers will be Mrs. William O. Campbell, first vice president; Mrs. William L. Taylor Jr., second vice president; Mrs. Frederick Schweitzer, third vice president; Mrs. James Lynch, recording secretary, and Mrs. William Holbrook, treasurer.

Mrs. D. R. Thomas will be revisions chairman; Mrs. Charles Buresh, social chairman; Miss Janet McIlraith, publicity chairman, and Miss Evelyn Swift, chairman of the nominating committee. The knitting and sewing group will be headed by Mrs. John D. Martin, assisted by Mrs. David Sanders. Mrs. Charles Sprowl will be chairman of the needlepoint group, with Mrs. Howard Grimes co-chairman and Mrs. Donald Eddy secretary. Settlement chairman and co-chairman are Mrs. Kenneth Crowell and Mrs. Walter Smith, and Red Cross chairman is Mrs. George Dorr Wolf Jr.

Here's Recipe for Gay Sunday Without Auto

BY RITA FITZPATRICK.

Gasless Sundays need not be gloomy Sundays.

More than 100 outdoor enthusiasts proved this yesterday in the Palos hills, where they answered the call of the open road in two good old fashioned ways, by heel and toe and horseback. Gasoline and tire limitations held no worries for 50 members of the Town and Country Equestrian association who gathered in the mist of the morning for their annual breakfast ride, or for 75 stout-booted lads and lassies of the Fort Dearborn Hikers' club who plodded cheerfully up hill and down dale in a five mile jaunt.

Reminiscent of a hunting print, the riders, many of them wearing stocks and bowlers, assembled with their mounts before a picturesque log cabin and spent the greater part of the morning chatting of fetlocks and friends.

As the skies cleared, however, and the air filled with the aroma of freshly washed verdure, the riders took to the woods and the trails, past sloughs where muskrats peered from their mud banked houses. They cantered over fields rippling with tall, summer daisies and bright, lavender globules of clover, over swallow haunted gullies, and thru thickets where the wild geranium held its last floral show of the season.

The clatter of horses' hooves flushed a covey of quail that shot up swift and frightened against the sky. Somewhere a meadowlark made a song of it.

After the brisk ride over a 13 mile route laid out and marked for the convenience of the association by the forest preserves and guided personally by Robert Mann, superintendent of maintenance for the preserves, the riders returned to the log-cabin clearing. They were tempted to dismount by the fragrance of bacon sizzling over a charcoal fire. Fluffy scrambled eggs, fried potatoes browned in butter, steins of beer, and coffee, black and hot, made up the breakfast fare.

One capricious pony nuzzled his way into favor and breakfasted at the rustic table with its owner. Needless to say, Gerald Gorman, 10337 Maplewood avenue, chairman of the ride, was one of the most popular persons present.

In another section of the forest preserves, the hikers of the Fort Dearborn club doggedly covered the hilly terrain under their own power. They scrambled over brush and gully, led by that hiking enthusiast, Roy E. Lane, director of the club, who believes a good trip on foot is worth two in a car.

"Since I organized the club last December, we have hiked in snow, sleet, rain and sunshine and loved it," Lane explained. "Hiking is romantic and healthy. It fosters friendship and in many instances marriage. It is the finest exercise a person can take for physical fitness."

"You know I'm not a bit sorry about all this gasoline and tire rationing," he added with a smile. "I think it is going to have a good influence. If nothing else comes out of this war, it will have at least given people back to their feet."

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Cal., June 7.—Strange that after all these years Charles Laughton signs a long term contract with Metro. I say strange, because he's done some of his best pictures there. The first was a horror thing called "Payment Deferred," which few people saw. That was in the pre-Frankenstein age, before our audiences grew to love horror. Charles' first for Metro this time will be "Cargo of Innocence," which title, of course, will be changed. His next "The Man from Down Under," an original by Bogart Rogers and Mark Kelly. All Laughton ever needed was a good story. I always felt it was a waste of time making him up to look like the hunchback of Notre Dame when nature had been so prolific in its endowment.

Charles Laughton.

Grand Idea—But—

There's no doubt about it, Bette Davis, John Garfield, and other top stars would like to put over a Stage Door Canteen at Ciro's. But there are many problems. In New York, the canteen is within walking distance of all theaters. There actors work nights and sleep days. Here actors work from 6 a. m. until —? Just try facing that candid camera without sleep! Sure, we have great talent in this town. But with the Vac's two canteens at Fort MacArthur, Blue Jackets at San Pedro and Terminal Island, and the USO—and those take care of about 7,000 nightly—the question is, do we need a Stage Door Canteen in Hollywood?

Luck Plus Talent.

Eddie Anderson, Jack Benny's Rochester, is the envy of all. Has five pictures lined up this year. Gets $25,000 per. His next will be "Cabin in the Sky," with Ethel Waters, for Metro. Between times he shuffles back and forth across the country, keeping an eye on his 18 race horses and a 35 foot power boat, which, when finished, he'll turn over to the government. For amusement, he has as fine a collection of miniature trains as you'd ever want to see. And in Central avenue and Harlem he's booked as "the man who discovered Jack Benny"! Could any one ask for more?

Local Lunacy.

The young lad picked up near Atlanta, Ga., after a nation-wide search, three years ago, who was to co-star with Spencer Tracy in "The Yearling," has a perfect alibi if he ever wants to use it. He's outgrown the part. Sure, he's gone back to Georgia brokenhearted, but with a bank account that would choke a horse. And the studio already has an investment of a million dollars—but no picture. . . . After 40 years of chain smoking cigars, W. C. Fields has quit. Doesn't want to become a slave to the habit. The late O. O. McIntyre described W. C.'s comedy characters as "a frightened bully." . . . Just for luck, he now signs his letters "W. C. T. Fields." . . .

Million Dollar Accidents.

It's a well known fact that many hit tunes from the movies are little accidents. When "Two Sleepy People" was brought on the set to Bob Hope and Shirley Ross, director said, "Can't use it—no time." There happened to be a piano standing by, and composer started playing the tune. Hope said, "Hold on a minute—what is that?" "'Two Sleepy People'—just been kicked out of your picture." "Wait a minute—let me try it." He did. They did. It was a hit. . . . "Jingle Jangle Jingle," which Paulette Goddard sings in "Forest Rangers," was dashed off as a bit of mood music. Now every band in the country wants to do a recording of it.

Well, I Swan.

Maureen O'Hara was guest of the second marine division down San Diego way last Thursday to receive her title of "sweetheart," climaxing three weeks of heavy balloting by the entire personnel. Up to the final day, Jane Russell and Lana Turner were running neck and neck, when all of a sudden Maureen passed them both and galloped in School Can Only Partly Train a Child

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

There are a great many parents who think that it's up to the school to educate their children. I mean, they think that it's up to the school to take the entire responsibility for their children's education.

Now, it's quite true that our great American public school system should be responsible for a certain part of a child's education, but it cannot be responsible for all. Just from the time angle it could not be. Think of how many hours a child spends out of school, at home, at play, and elsewhere. His education goes on willy-nilly, for better or for worse, since everything that touches him educates a child.

And here's another angle: Many parents write me longingly, wishing their children might have the advantages that go with "progressive education"; whether those ideals are worked out in a public or private school they don't care.

Well, don't let that get you down. Instead, see what you can do with your child's environment so that his after-school time and his week-ends and vacations offer soil in which his roots can strike out and bring him esthetic, manual, or creative satisfaction.

Now, you may feel a little at sea. You may think, "What shall I expose him to first?" Observation always is a great aid in decisions. First, watch your children and see toward what they already have a leaning. Then, when you discover that leaning, encourage it by giving your child time and material for its expression.

For example, you may have heard that your son often is drawing pictures at school when he should be studying or listening. Supply him with drawing materials, and be interested in and discuss with him his work in drawing.

Your daughter may want to write poems or stories instead of lessons. See that she has notebooks and pencils, and perhaps protect her from interruption so that she has time to satisfy her interest.

The child who wants to help with a carpentry job or hangs over the car when there's engine trouble, has a bent. Do what you can about that. And for the child who loves to dance, or to listen to music, do something consciously about those tastes. The child who shows a passionate fondness for animals should decidedly have pets.

Women's Group to Discuss Pooling of War Activities

The presidents of 20 coöperating organizations have been invited to attend an informal tea and conference at 2 o'clock today at the Woman's City club, 410 South Michigan avenue. They will discuss pooling of effort on similar activities, particularly in war and home defense work. As a step toward avoiding duplication of effort, the hostess club is opening its citizenship desk to members of women's organizations. The desk, directed by Mrs. Richard U. Halstrom, assists American born persons to obtain birth certificates or delayed birth registrations. Started originally for its own membership, the service was expanded and has been operating for several weeks for the benefit of both men and women workers in defense industries.

for a flash finish! . . . When Virginia Van Upp went to the hospital, Paramount sent her a crystal ball, with the book of same title, just as a suggestion. She came out with a completed script of it. . . . No flies on Bob Taylor. He's got an option on "Falling Through Space," all about a wounded RAF pilot, which he wants Metro to buy. And the best part of it is that Bob can really fly. . . .

Hi, Ho, Silver!!

RKO couldn't find a boy to replace Tim Holt, so they're looking around for a likely cowgirl. They're pretty smart, changing from male to female. They may settle for that pretty blonde, Barbara Moffitt, from Pasadena, who's not only a crack shot but can handle a pony as well as Tim. . . . When Roz Russell wants anything she uses the wolf call she picked up from boys in the army camps, and she says she gets faster action than if she blew a police whistle. . . . Wouldn't you have enjoyed seeing Dick Foran giving the mayor a hot foot during his speech at the Helldorado festival in Las Vegas?

Pot Calling the Kettle?

When Jack Oakie ran into an extra who, by his appearance, had drowned his sorrows the night before, Jack said, "You sure got rid of your sorrow last night." "I don't know about that," said the friend, "but I gave it a mighty good dousing." . . . Which reminds me of Jack's wife, Venita, who intimates that if she gets one more black eye, out he goes. . . . Sam Wood has no intention of backing a Broadway play for his daughter, but the authors of "Curtain Going Up" are begging Sam to come on and direct it for them. . . . Something to wait for: Vera Vague's impersonation of Dietrich on skates in "Ice-Capades Revue." . . . Miguelito Valdes, whose grandfather left him a sugar plantation in Cuba, lost his sugar book and has to borrow the stuff from his friends.

Give Him a Chance.

Since there's such a dearth of leading men, wouldn't you like to see some of our cowboy stars get a chance? Personally, I think Roy Rogers teamed up with Ginger would make a mighty nice combination, and he'd surprise lots of you high-toned folks who've never seen him on the screen, Heck! No one ever thought Ginger could get along without words and music until she got a whack at it, and now look at her! . . . No matter how great their friendship, the fur will fly if Lucille Ball gets parts that Ann Sothern wants. I'm just sitting back rocking—and waiting for fireworks! . . . When I asked Alexis Smith what was happening on the "Gentleman Jim" set, she said, "Only thing that's developed around here is Errol Flynn's muscle."

KAY KYSER'S BAND

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

For a good three-fourths of this picture Kay Kyser is an unsung hero. . . . Then Ah—then! . . . Sh-h-h!, this is a spy story.

Being sech I mustn't tell you much about it. Only that Kay gets into the army by mistake. The mistake puts him into khaki and speeds him to camp on his wedding night. . . . It is discovered in a short time and Kay is told he may go back to his orchestra—BUT—as a government agent, because it is thought that the Orchid club where he and his men play is the rendezvous of dangerous spies.

Not even to his bride must Kay confide the fact that he's working for Uncle Sam. . . . He must let the story ride that flat feet have caused his discharge and—but there I go telling.

In his counterespionage activities he is assisted by a beautiful girl agent. . . . . Because he is NOT able to confide in his wife, Mrs. Kyser leads a life of stress and strain. Now Kay sees her and now he doesn't because she is always packing up and going home to mother with reason.

BUT for ze finale, la, la everyseeng es LOV-ALY!

I wouldn't have paid a penny for the story. However, the ingratiating Kay, the lovely Misses Drew and Jane Wyman, some other able players and the boys of the band do pretty embroidery on the clumsy narrative. . . .

But what Kyser fans want is Kay Kyser functioning mostly in the capacity that has made him beloved. And they want his band as foreground—not background—of his movies. Am I right?

See you tomorrow!

INSTALMENT XXXVII.

WAR.

Rawlings got out and walked back to his car. Matarasso was finished and already he had dismissed him from his thoughts. He was think about June.

"Deep and subtle be damned! She's clever on the stunts, but she sees the thing as a schoolgirl would see it."

He drove into Whitehall—across the road, up Whitehall, nearly to Trafalgar Square. Then he swerved round, drove back down Whitehall to the Embankment, and so to Chelsea.

To the Mayflower garage.

In the end the instinct to check up on June's statement had been too strong, cutting like a knife thru his idealism.

He was fingering a 10 shilling note when he spoke to the attendant.

"A Miss Clayton that was, sir. Well, there was a plainclothes 'tec waiting for her. I didn't hear what they said, because the Morstyn was right over there. But they didn't say much, whatever it was. Then he got into the car and they drove off together. That's all I know, sir, except that he'd been here some time. He was here when I took over and my mate told me he was a 'tec."

"Buy a bottle of champagne and drink our health; we're engaged," he said.

• • •

After leaving June, Glenday had gone back to Segrove's room, where they discussed June's information.

"We'll have evidence against Rawlings' mother tomorrow," said Glenday, "but I don't want her arrested until after next Thursday."

"I don't see how we're going to get her," objected Segrove. "There's that stuff that Rawlings and Miss Clayton landed today. Call it consignment No. 1. Tomorrow afternoon Baroness Rallendorf takes the bag to Red Lion Square and this time we're leaving the explosive intact, so that we shall be able to use it for evidence. Garstein, as before, collects it and takes it back to his jeweler's shop. We then collar Garstein while the stuff is on the premises."

"Better give 'em a little false security first," cut in Glenday. "Suppose you raid Garstein next Tuesday, say in the afternoon."

"Tuesday afternoon." Segrove made a note. "But how do we get any evidence that she carried the bag? That's evidence against Garstein; but it's not evidence against the baroness."

"I shall leave that to London News Reel," grinned Glenday. "They'll make a film for us showing baroness with bag."

"As to consignment No. 2, which Rawlings will land on Tuesday, you could collar Wirtz at the farmhouse with the evidence."

"Next Tuesday, eh!" muttered Segrove, half to himself. "By the look of things we shall be dodging about in gas masks by then."

On the following afternoon Baroness Rallendorf, driving her son's car, drew up in the courtyard at Victoria station. As June had done at Charing Cross, she handed a porter the cloakroom ticket.

A couple of minutes later the porter returned, but without any bag.

"Sorry, madam, they won't let me have it. All passengers have to sign a receipt. It's on account of these here terrorist outrages and I'm afraid you'll have to come in person."

The baroness was suspicious, but there was no safe retreat. But when she reached the cloakroom her suspicions were dispelled. The railway company was coöperating heartily and there were other passengers who were being compelled to sign.

Repairs were being done to the lights and men on ladders were shouting to each other, and now and then there would be a flare of strong light.

"Is this your bag, madam?"

The baroness glanced at the bag. "Yes." She signed a slip, blinking a little in the strong light, and then: "Take that to my car, please," she said to the porter, unaware that an arm of metal just above her head was a sound arm and that her voice as well as her actions had been recorded.

Prepared as she was, the declaration of war came as a terrific shock to June Clayton, but not to Frank Rawlings, whose espionage activities she had faithfully reported to Glenday.

To the blue-eyed boy of the British secret service who'd made her promise to marry the German spy—just so she could go on with her own counterspying!

At breakfast with her aunt, Mrs. Mallen, memories . . . fears, too . . . surged thru June's mind. For there it was Tuesday, Aunt Dorothy had never even heard the name Rawlings and day after tomorrow, Thursday, was the date Frank had set for the marriage.

It was also the date she'd chosen to run away and hide in Edinburgh . . . or Glasgow . . . or Cornwall . . . anywhere . . . to avoid going thru with the ceremony. A personal secret she'd withheld from Glenday, who seemed to think she could wriggle out of the situation.

He'd also given her a new assignment—the undercovering of members of the Rawlings' organization in France—which might "keep her on the job," right up to the time scheduled for the wedding.

To add to those complications, Baroness Rallendorf, Frank's mother, with whom she had a 10 o'clock appointment in the West End, contended she "must have a trousseau."

What a plight to be in! That was June's thought when sirens sounding an air raid warning shrilled thru the house. Almost immediately, however, the "all clear" was heard, a signal that prompted Mrs. Mallen to say:

"I expect it was another false alarm, dear, thank heaven!"

June pretended to agree and went back to her room. It was now 9:40, about the time Frank Rawlings would be over Brighton with a load of explosives. Perhaps in those few minutes he had been shot down.

But she would not let herself speculate—and began to dress for her rendezvous with Frank's mother.

Just why the baroness wanted to help her select the "trousseau" she didn't know—unless it was sheer determination that she have one. Otherwise why should a woman with so many dark secrets, who lived in a perpetual twilight of fear, wish to shop at a time so perilous?

Still, entangled as she was, there was nothing to do but keep the appointment and go thru the farcical necessity of buying a wedding outfit.

All of which she did, discovering as they went from store to store that the German woman was a shrewd shopper with an artistic eye and a considerable knowledge of dress. June was glad of her help, too, for her thoughts kept straying to Frank Rawlings. Neither made any reference to him, however, until they sat down to an early lunch.

"Half past 12," said June. "I wonder——"

"You are wondering whether that air raid warning can mean anything for us. Take my advice, dear, and never allow yourself to think of disaster until it happens. This morning I have been thinking of nothing at all but your clothes and I have thoroly enjoyed myself."

"I've been very grateful for your help," said June. "I could never have made up my mind about that Paris model."

"I was concentrating and you were not," smiled the other. "Whenever I get the chance of doing something trivial and ordinary, I throw myself into it. I confess that I have been playing a little game with myself this morning. I have been pretending that Frank has gone back to his regiment and that I am just a typical mother having a great deal of fun in getting to know my prospective daughter-in-law."

"Life is terribly hard for you, baroness."

"No worse for me than for many another. Now don't let's talk about anything serious or we shall spoil our day. After lunch I want you to come with me."

They called a taxi.

According to Culbertson

"I was South and, with the opponents remaining silent, my partner and I reached a contract of six diamonds. West opened the club queen and I strongly suspected that East's club nine was a singleton. I won and cashed the ace and king of trumps, to my delight dropping the queen from West. Next, I put dummy in with the spade ace and led a club, trying to tempt East to ruff it. Had he done so, the hand would have become a laydown. I then could have run the three remaining spades, getting rid of dummy's losing club, then could have ruffed my only club loser in dummy.

"But East refused to be tempted. He discarded a spade and it was now my turn to ponder. I concluded that, if East had started with at least four spades, the contract still could be secure. To this purpose I led two top spades and discarded a club from dummy, my intention being then to lead a club. Had East been compelled to follow to those spades, this attack would have left the defenders helpless. But East ruffed the spade jack, and I was down one. My expected top became a bottom."

This hand ably illustrates the point that an apparently worthless trump may be very valuable, indeed. East showed laudable restraint and imagination when he failed to jump in with his diamond ten on the club lead from dummy.

I do not agree, however, with my correspondent's assertion that after East's spade discard on this trick the contract still could have been fulfilled if East had started with four spades. Declarer was forced to win the club lead with the king, then to play the Ring and jack of spades, discarding one of the dummy's clubs. Suppose East had followed to these spade plays. Declarer's intention was then to lead a club, taking out dummy's last club. But this would have given West one trick and then all he had to do was lead his last club. Declarer would either have to ruff with dummy's diamond jack, thereby establishing East's ten spot as the setting trick, or would have to concede the club trick to West.

Apparently, readers have a marvelous appetite for contributed recipes. "Give us more prize and honorable mention recipes," they write. I'm beginning to think they like other readers' recipes better than mine!

But that's all right, too. There are so many fine recipes submitted in the contest that we are conducting, that it would be a shame not to pass on more than the seven weekly prize winners.

Every day some cook wins a $5 prize. We hope you, too, will send us your best recipe. If it isn't a winner, it may possibly shine forth like these, as an "honorable mention."

Spanish Beets.

[Mrs. Ruth Grimshaw, 401 Academy street, Elroy, Wis.]

4 slices bacon, diced coarsely
1 teaspoon flour
½ cup sour cream
1 teaspoon sugar
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 cups cooked chopped beets

Fry bacon until golden brown, remove, and add flour to bacon fat, stirring until smooth. Gradually add sour cream, bacon, sugar, salt, and lemon juice. Heat. Place hot beets in serving dish and pour bacon-lemon juice mixture over them. Serves four.

The Admiral's Cheese.

½ pound good American cheese
¼ pound Roquefort type cheese
1 small package cream cheese
Minced chives, cream, paprika

Put cheese thru potato ricer and add chives to suit your taste. Thin with heavy cream. Then rice again into a cone shaped mound on a serving plate. Dredge top with paprika and serve. This is delicious as a dessert with preserved cherries and wafers, a delightful change from a sweet dessert, and a sugar saver.

Here's one that won't save any sugar for you. You'll have to save sugar for it!

One-Two-Three Marmalade.

2 oranges
3 quarts strawberries
1 cup sugar for each cup fruit mixture

Cut oranges [rind and all] and pineapple into small, thin slices. Leave berries whole. Mix and let stand 50 minutes. Add an equal proportion of sugar and cook slowly for 50 minutes. Seal. The pineapple may be put thru the food chopper if desired.

Forty Winks Corn Fritters.

Stir together 18 crumbled soda crackers, 1½ cups whole kernel canned corn, 2 eggs, slightly beaten, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon sugar. Fry by spoonfuls in a skillet or on a griddle, turning once. And you have corn fritters in 40 winks. Serve with maple sirup.

36 fresh okra pods [about 1 pound]
2 tablespoons butter
½ cup raw ham, cut in tiny cubes
1 cup condensed tomato soup
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon minced parsley

Wash okra pods and trim ends. Melt butter in saucepan and add okra and ham. Cook until browned, but not scorched. Then add tomato soup, salt, and pepper. Cover pan and bake 45 minutes at 350 degrees. Turn out into vegetable dish and sprinkle with parsley. Serves six.

Women in War Work

By India Moffett

M. M. writes: Will you be kind enough to answer these questions about the classes being conducted at the Illinois Institute of Technology:

Q. I had 20 hours college work in 1933 before the depression forced me out completely. Is that enough to be considered if I should apply at the institute? A. Not for the one course, industrial chemistry, that requires college training. Ordnance inspection and engineering drafting do not require any college work.

Q. How long does the course take, and what hours does the school run? A. The summer course will take 10 weeks and the hours are approximately 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. five days a week.

Q. Are graduates of the various courses expected to go to work on wartime jobs at once, or is it training to be used later, if the need arises? A. Graduates are expected to go to work at once, for the need is here.

Q. Is there expense to the individual? If so, for what and how much? A. The expense amounts to about $15 for books.

Q. Is previous study necessary in the subject taken? I am particularly interested in chemistry, of which I had one semester. A. Eight semester hours of chemistry are required, but sometimes exceptions are made and women having less than this requirement are admitted to the classes.

Q. Can you tell me if the summer classes are already filled? I have the next three months free and would like to make use of them. A. No, the summer classes are not filled. They start June 15 and applications must be made in person at the Lewis Institute division, 1951 West Madison street.

Mrs. William H. Stanley, chairman of the Consumer Information service at 228 North La Salle street, is hoping that many home economics teachers and school teachers will spend part of their vacation doing volunteer work in the service's headquarters. There is an urgent need for workers trained to disseminate information, Mrs. Stanley says, and she hopes that many teachers will give one or two days a week this summer to the cause for which she and so many others are working diligently.

One of the most active women in this service is Mrs. Edward Johnson, chairman of the Rogers Park-Clark center at 7003 North Clark street. One morning recently when she attended a meeting at downtown headquarters she was asked what she carried in a bag hung on her arm.

"My luncheon," she replied and continued, "I have to go to a meeting at the Rogers Park-Clark center from here and there will not be a minute for luncheon, so I have a sandwich in that bag and I'll eat it on the streetcar as I ride north. I often do this on busy days." She's a volunteer!

Another busy center is the Sheridan one at 3810 Broadway. Mrs. George Aste is general chairman of women's activities in this center, and Mrs. Philip Hampson is in charge of the information desk. She and her committee have established a file on general information, a scrap book, a question and answer file, a pamphlet file, a file on the personnel of civilian defense in this area, and a collection of street guides and zone maps, so that they are equipped to answer questions pertaining to civilian defense. More volunteers are needed for the information desk, however, which is open from 10 a. m. until 5 p. m. and from 7 p. m. until 9 p. m. Residents of that neighborhood who wish to do this work can get in touch with Mrs. Hampson at her home, Buckingham 3543, or at the center, Wellington 1436.

At a recent meeting of the Fashion group in New York interesting information about the great new army of women doing war production work was told by Dr. Millicent Pond, director of employment for a large manufacturing company which used to make cosmetics cases, etc., and now makes shell cases and bomb fuses. Dr. Pond said the majority of the concern's employés are between the ages of 18 and 35, but some are more than 60. The new workers formerly have been teachers, social service workers, nurses, sales clerks, domestic servants, show girls, beauty operators, waitresses, office workers, and housewives.

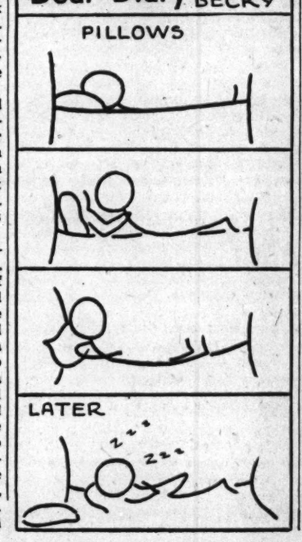
"These factory women," Dr. Pond said, "are absolutely up to date in both dress and grooming. Cosmetics are used freely and well. Hair grooming is particularly careful. Freshly set curls are pinned together close to the head on Saturday mornings after the Friday pay day hair-do, and caps, if they must be worn, are adjusted with care. Good therapeutic care of skin and hands is taken. This is necessary because powder, oil, and dirt roughen and discolor the skin."

Dr. Pond advised women to apply to the federal employment service to find out the possibilities of employment near home, and she gave some further advice along this line that is well worth passing on.

"Apply imaginatively," she said. "Chat, ask questions; build up information for yourself about other occupations, what they require, what they pay, what they are. Apply logically. Analyze your past experience for components which might be used in a new connection. Apply persistently. Dig; don't lean! One application rejected or overlooked does not deny you a niche in the defense world. Conditions will be changing rapidly in the next few months. Keep at it, and good luck!"

[The Women in War Work department reports on women's activities in war and defense work and will answer questions of women wishing to take part in these activities.]

Dear Diary BY BECKY



Sally Requests Baby Buggy of Folding Type

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

Many mothers of small children, living in crowded quarters on second and third floors, would appreciate discarded folding buggies. In most cases there is no room for storage of larger buggies, and taking them up and down stairs is often a difficult task.

A caseworker has requested a buggy of the folding type for Mrs. B. Her husband is in service and cannot provide fully for his infant son. The home is on the third floor, and Mrs. B. cannot take the baby to the Welfare clinic as she is unable to carry him 10 blocks. The address is on the south side, and transportation can be arranged.

Mrs. D. expresses a similar need: "Dear Miss Brown: You were kind enough to help me in the past and I do hope you will be able to aid me once more. I am expecting my second baby the latter part of August. What things I have from the first child are well worn, and I would appreciate anything in the way of baby clothing, and any kind of a light buggy, as I am on the second floor and not strong enough to manage a heavy one.

"Since I last wrote you my husband has secured a position in private employment, but with conditions as they are we manage living expenses but not much more. The added burden of a future hospital bill leaves us with very little extra at this time."

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY.

What to Do!

Leading question of the week: What does the switchboard operator do when handling incoming calls for "Mr. Birnkrant" of the law firm of "Birnkrant, Birnkrant, & Birnkrant" in Detroit? There are eight Birnkrant brothers, all practicing attorneys.

Nice Gesture.

Ellen Jones postscripts to the paragraph anent the young man who, upon entering the service, gave corsages to all the girls in the office: "Not long ago I snatched a sandwich at a basement lunch counter of a large store. On the counter stood at least three dozen deep red roses with a card attached: 'To my girls'—an unexpected bit of gallantry from a shy, reticent young man [the day he departed for camp] to his feminine co-workers."

Eating for Health.

Dr. Ruth Cowan Clouse, head of the home economics department of Illinois Institute of Technology and chairman of the Chicago Nutrition committee, makes some suggestions to the business girl.

"Nothing," she says, "is more important to health than an adequate diet of natural foods. They include not less than one pint of milk daily, generous servings of vegetables and fruits—particularly green, leafy vegetables, and citrus fruits—whole grain or enriched bread and cereals, and other natural foods such as meat, fish, eggs, cheese, and butter."

Dr. Clouse warns against the "one-meal-a-day" habit. You can't get enough of the right food into one single meal. "Hence the present stress on an adequate breakfast and lunch. Fruit [or fruit juice] and milk should be added to the customary toast and coffee breakfast, and vegetable [or fruit] and milk to the all-too-common sandwich and coffee lunch. All bread should be whole grain or enriched."

And here's another tip. "For the mid-morning or mid-afternoon 'pick-up' nothing is better," she says, "than fruit juice or milk. Scientific experiments have demonstrated these are fully as effective as sugar in the form of soft drinks or candy, and they have important added nutritional values as well. They carry their own supply of natural sugars and cannot be affected by any shortage of refined cane sugar."

Mindful of that sage advice, we ought to have that schoolgirl complexion . . . for keeps.

Seen and Heard.

Glimpsed during the noon hour in a loop building: The dignified woman carrying a parrot in a small basket, the parrot muttering inconsequentia to itself as it descended, via the elevator, from the 18th to the 1st floor.

Overheard in the beauty parlor; In a woe-begone voice: "But I'm telling you . . . I'll have to follow the army in a trailer because nobody can manage him but me!"

Advice to Failures.

What is the best advice you ever heard given to some one who failed? "All right, now let's take your failure by the scruff of the neck and make it work for you," was Dr. Herman Schneider's formula. Work for you . . . not against you.

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

This delightful crocheted hat done in a shell stitch has an attractive purse companion piece. The hat is the type which may be worn front to back or vice versa. The purse may be worked in stripes or solid color. The hat and bag are most attractive when worked in the popular wool and rayon material.

For instructions in crocheting the shell stitch hat and purse, No. 1121, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Doris Makes View Plain on War Wedding

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

We feel that we must make our position clear on a subject of great interest to young people at the present time. We have been misunderstood, obviously, by very young people such as today's "Correspondent" for instance, on the subject of war marriages.

We said plainly that when marriage is indorsed, altho it means the early departure of the soldier bridegroom, that there should be a sufficiently long period of courtship and acquaintance to relieve the romance of any uniform hysteria or war hysteria. In fact, we suggested that this period of acquaintance should be of at least a year's duration and marriage must have been in the minds of the young couple during the trial period. In any event, we warned that, under no circumstances should girls rush into marriage with youths in uniform whom they have known only a brief period, such as a few weeks, say, or a few months. And this caution is urged not to make life more difficult for our young girls, but to protect them against the common hazards attendant upon impulsive war marriages.

It's not an easy rôle, that of the young war bride whose husband is off to parts unknown, even when she has known him a long time and marriage was in the cards for them anyway. It's far more difficult for the young woman whose marriage was, or is, based on an impulsive urge, be that urge fear of spinsterhood or merely an impulse commonly described as being carried off one's feet.

It's known that war marriages are a serious test, and that many of them go on the rocks. But among the failures, the major group evolves from the hasty, unconsidered, emotional approach to the altar.

Today's correspondent argues with her mother, that altho she is not quite 18 and met her soldier beau at a comparatively recent dance, she should marry him because we have urged these early war marriages. We never, never urged a hasty union such as our young correspondent plans, and we do hope, for her own future happiness, that she will listen to her mother's counsel, for certainly, under the circumstances, mother does know best.

Delegate from Palestine Working Women to Speak

Mrs. Yehudit Simchonith, delegate of Moazoth Hapoaloth, the council of 53,000 working women in Palestine, will speak tonight before the Pioneer Women's organization at its annual reception in the Grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel. One of the leaders in the women's organized labor movement in Palestine, Mrs. Simchonith is widely known for her efforts to raise the educational level of workers in the Zionist colony. Maurice Samuels, lecturer and writer, also will speak.

Thru the Looking Glass

One of the most popular of the new kind of stockings that come out of a bottle comes in two shades, a sunkissed beige and a darker bronze. It seems to us to give a nice finish, rather matlike, and it does a good job of hiding the little skin imperfections that most women are so conscious of when they go stockingless.

This liquid won't rub off on clothing. One important step in using it is to blend it until it's dry. Shake the bottle well, pour the liquid into the palm of the hand, and stroke with a sweeping, upward motion until the finish is smooth. It has a slight sheen. It's removed with soap and water.

This liquid leg film isn't waterproof; it resists a reasonable amount of perspiration, however, and is entirely satisfactory for day or evening wear. The deep shade is particularly successful with white costumes.

One reader wants to know why we suggest brown toned makeup for legs. She feels it's a foolish bit of flattery to the Japanese! And wants to know what's wrong with naturally white skin. The answer is that skin covered with hose—either synthetic or honest-to-goodness fabric — in any beige tone looks far less naked, for some reason. Also, not one woman in a thousand has flawless skin on her legs.

Makeup that is opaque and in the accepted beige-tinted tones conceals such imperfections as prominent veins and the little abrasions that are so common. Either a coat of tan or a makeup that simulates it looks infinitely better than the average natural flesh tone.

International Relations Library to Give Tea Today

The Library of International Relations, 86 East Randolph Street, will give the first of a series of June teas at 4 o'clock today to illustrate its services and resources. New Slumber Robes Assure Nights of Rest

BY REA SEEGER.

Most of the irritable moods during a summer are caused by insufficient sleep or sleep that didn't sooth because of soaring temperatures plus too warm sleeping apparel. Evidently, quite a number of the nightgown designers experienced the same trouble . . . for new ideas for a good night's sleep are here. Whether you chuckle at the first glance or not depends upon your sense of appreciation.

These finds are the nightgowns that have been cut off at the kneeline. They start out in regulation style, then end abruptly but smartly a good 18 or more inches from the floor.

Some look perilously like granddaddy's nightshirt, especially the tailored affairs. Others look like what a hospital bed jacket should look like but never does. All of them are definitely cool and supercomfortable. Take your pick from either sheers or the silky crêpes, from models that are frankly feminine with ruffles and lace, very low necklines and no sleeves, except a cap over the shoulders, or the prim models tailored to the last inch. Tailored finds have long sleeves with cuffs, high necklines with turnover collars, and a narrow front panel with tiny pearl buttons.

Or you may like the tailored affairs with tiny lace edging along the collar down the center panel and along the edges of the cuffs, sort of a half and half idea, not too frilly and not too tailored.

Lightweight sheers come in pastels and white; the silky crêpes also in white and the same range of pastels . . . it's the abbreviated length that causes all the furore . . . it's a safe bet such hot weather gowns will prove as controversial as the "slack nuisance" . . . maybe not so much, as it's a cinch these revolutionary models simply can't wander far.

CUBS AND WHITE SOX LOSE DOUBLE HEADERS

DODGERS WIN IN 10TH, 4-3, AFTER 8 TO 4 TRIUMPH

Schmitz Goes Route Against 5 Rivals.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The titleholding Dodgers yesterday added to their scheme to coast to their second straight National league pennant. The Cubs did develop enough stamina to carry the second half of a double header into extra innings, but the champions picked up a run with the aid of Pete Reiser's bat in the tenth. This was sufficient to flatten the Chicagoans, 4 to 3, after they had lost, 8 to 4, in the first half before a 31,806 crowd in Wrigley field.

The statistics resulting from the toil of a long day involved a lot of fellows as well as items. Among the latter was the plunking of the Cubs back into seventh place and their eighth loss to Brooklyn in nine games. Four Cub pitchers, the first of them Vern Olsen, experienced a more or less bumpy ride in the first argument. Five Brooklyn moundsmen had a hand in the second battle, the last of the quintet being Johnny Allen who relieved Larry French with the bases filled in the ninth and fanned Jim Foxx.

Schmitz Goes the Route.

The one pitcher of a batch of twelve who stayed long enough to finish what he started was Johnny Schmitz, the lefty, and altho he was blown down in the second struggle he might have fared better if Lou Novikoff had been able to respond to opportunity. After Phil Cavarretta's third homer had put the Cubs in reach of a tie in the sixth against Schoolboy Rowe, making his first start as a Dodger, the Mad Russian tapped into a double play with the bases loaded. In the eighth the Cubs finally got the tie by knocking out Rescuer Hugh Casey and again Novikoff hit into a twin killing with the bags jammed.

Schmitz gave up only six hits in nine innings, but four were properly placed for three runs. And Johnny was almost out of the tenth before the decisive thrust was delivered. He had two out when he walked Peewee Reese for the third time. He complicated his case by plunking Arky Vaughan in the back. Reiser delivered his sixth hit of the afternoon, dropping a single into left on the first pitch and Reese carried home the winning run.

FIRST GAME

Hack speared a liner off Reese's bat to open the first inning and this proved the only out recorded during Olsen's unhappy régime. Vaughan singled to right and Reiser beat out a roller the Cubs figured would turn foul. Medwick drove the two home by doubling to right. Walker's single sent Medwick to the plate and Olsen to the showers. Erickson adjusted the disturbance without delay, but the champions caught up with him very shortly.

Singles by Herman and Reese gave the Dodgers another run in the second. Walker doubled and Camilli singled for another in the third and after escaping intact from a two hit fourth, Erickson went away to join Olsen. The Dodgers took things easy against Bithorn for the next two innings but showered three runs on the Puerto Rican boy in the seventh. Vaughan singled and Reiser survived on Bithorn's wild throw of a bunt. The pair scored on Medwick's fly and a single by Walker. The latter counted on a hit by Owen.

The first four Cubs reached base in the seventh. McCullough singled and scored on a pinch double by Lou Stringer. Hack walked and when Merullo dumped a single in short cen-

DYKES PROTESTS 2D 3-2 LOSS OF DAY TO BOSTON

Says Umpire Waved In Wrong Pitcher.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., June 7.—More than 20,000 Boston Red Sox fans had one of the most exciting afternoons they'll enjoy during the summer as they watched their heroes win twice from the White Sox today, each time by a score of 3 to 2.

In the first game, which was held up almost an hour and a half by a storm, Bobby Doerr tied the score with a homer off Ted Lyons in the ninth and Jim Tabor followed with a winning homer. The second game was won in eight innings after an amazing effort by Manager Jim Dykes to stall until the 6:30 p. m. Sunday curfew only to lose when the Boston constabulary apparently gave the Red Sox an extra minute, which the Bostons seemed to rate, at that.

Gives Reasons for Protests.

Manager Dykes immediately declared he was making a formal protest of the second game on two counts. He insisted it was the umpires, and not he, who waved Southpaw Jake Wade in from the far distant bull pen to relieve Joe Haynes, who had pitched to one batter after relieving Buck Ross in the woozy eighth. Dykes said one of the umpires motioned with his left hand, which is the signal for a southpaw. The Chicago manager said he was preparing to summon Pete Appleton, a right hander, who also was warming up.

Dykes' second claim for protest was that the umpires allowed the game to continue after the 6:30 deadline.

Rommel Chases Dietrich.

Ross had relieved Bill Dietrich in the seventh after Umpire-in-Chief Ed Rommel, former teammate of Dykes with the A's, had tossed the starting Chicago pitcher out of the game for arguing with him while Tony Lupien was batting. After Ross retired the side, he was sent to the far away bull pen to continue warming up, tho he was due to bat second in the eighth. Buck's return trip to take his turn at the plate consumed more than a little time.

This was the setting in the Boston eighth: With the game deadlocked, 2 to 2, Pinch Batter-Manager Joe Cronin singled and Paul Campbell ran for him. Then Dom DiMaggio, whose homer had accounted for the two previous Boston runs in the third off Dietrich, sent Campbell to third with a single.

Haynes Pitches to One Man.

This is where Haynes was waved into the game and he gave an intentional pass to Johnny Pesky, filling the bases, and also bringing the clock nearer to the Sunday law deadline. By this time the crowd was in an uproar and the umpires were arguing with Dykes and vice versa. While the three umpires—Rommel, Bill McGowan, and Cal Hubbard—threatened Dykes, Wade, recently signed as a free agent, was taking his five warm up pitches.

When Dykes indicated he would call in another pitcher, the three umpires again rushed Dykes. Then Wade started pitching to Finney. He threw two wide ones to the batter and the clock in center field indicated it was 6:31 o'clock, a minute later than the legal Sunday limit. Finney then flied to Hoag, and Campbell scored the winning run while the crowd roared its disapproval of the futile delaying tactics.

Dietrich Gets Two Run Lead.

The White Sox gave Dietrich a 2 to 0 lead in the second inning of the second game. Taft Wright walked and took third on Joe Kuhel's single and Joe took second when DiMaggio fumbled the ball. Wright scored on Bob Kennedy's infield out and Myril Hoag's single brought in Kuhel. Then DiMaggio hit his third inning game tying homer scoring Pitcher Johnny

The Tragedy.

Their time was occupied with things outside;
The pretty wedding presents and the guests,
The gorgeous wedding raiment for the bride,
The way in which the bridesmaids should be dressed,
The flowers that should form the bride's bouquet,
The cupids who should bear her silken train,
The music that the orchestra should play,
And other details equally as vain.

And when the final marriage vows were made
And they had been united man and wife,
When all their finery had been displayed
And they must settle down to family life,
They found out to their infinite surprise
That they were strangers in each other's eyes. —T. E. B.

Minneapolis, Minn., June 7 (AP).—Harry Cooper, Minneapolis pro, led three qualifiers thru a 54 hole sectional test of the Hale American golf eliminations today, adding a 73—71 to his Saturday round of 68 for 212, or four under perfect figures for the par 72 Country club course.

Seven strokes back, with rounds of 75—75—69—219, was Neil Croonquist, Minneapolis amateur, while the last qualifying place was taken by Joe Coria, St. Paul pro, with 70—78—74—222.

235 IS LOW AT TULSA.

Tulsa, Okla., June 7 (AP).—George Whitehead, Tulsa pro, won the sectional qualifying round today. Whitehead, who turned in 77 yesterday, added 78 and 80 today for 235. Tied for second were Bill Wotherspoon, Tulsa pro, and John Fink, Muskogee amateur, with 239's.

Henry Picard of Oklahoma City, had 210, three strokes better than par, for 54 holes of exhibition play. While this section is permitted two entries in the national tournament besides Picard, who had automatically qualified, the only player who indicated that he might go to Chicago was Fink.

CINCINNATI QUALIFIERS.

Cincinnati, O., June 7 (AP).—Bob Gutwein, a young pro, totaled 211, two under par, to lead Hale America qualifiers today. Gutwein shot 72 yesterday and turned in a pair of 70s today over the Kenwood Country club course.

Reggie Myles of Columbia Station, O., and Tony Penna of Dayton, both pros, tied for second at 212. Courtney Noe, Louisville, Ky., pro, was fourth with 213. Bobby Servis of Dayton was low amateur with 215, finishing in a tie with Johnny Malutic, Bedford, O., pro.

Billy Burke of Cleveland, Art Smith of Cincinnati, and Fred Gronauer of Indianapolis tied at 216 and necessitated a playoff for the remaining two qualifying places. Gronauer birdied the first hole, sinking a 48 foot putt to become the seventh qualifier. Burke and Smith parred the second, third, and fourth holes, and on the fifth Burke chipped in a 45 foot shot for a birdie to become the eighth qualifier.

Yachtsmen Aiding Navy Train Middies

"Your yacht and your service for the nation" is the motto adopted by 140 Chicagoland yachtsmen who are participating in a series of afternoon lake front cruises to train midshipmen of the Northwestern university's Abbott hall navy officer school. The program started last week.

It is said to be the first time in the nation's history that the use of yachts to augment naval officer training has been officially approved. Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox gave the go ahead sign to Commodore Sheldon Clark, president of the Navy League of the United States, who conceived the plan six months before Pearl Harbor.

Commodore Clark plans to send the details of the program to the Navy league's vice presidents in the states where 26 other university naval reserve training schools are located. In these cities, most of them on navigable waters, the local Navy league officials are expected to serve as a liaison between the navy department and the local yacht clubs.

How It Started.

Commodore Clark called the first meeting of yacht owners six weeks ago in Thorne hall and the program he outlined now is in full operation.

Every Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday afternoon a platoon of middies wearing summer whites and tennis shoes, marches from Abbott hall to the lake front embarkation point. There they are met by a flotilla of cruisers and auxiliary sailing craft, all over 30 feet in length.

Each of the yachts has had a rigid inspection by navy officers, to be sure that it carries the ordinary safety equipment prescribed by maritime law, as well as to insure that the boat is sound and seaworthy. The owner then is assigned a numbered sign to be attached to his rigging or cabin. A Navy league pennant also is given him to fly while his yacht is manned by the middies.

Off on a Cruise.

After the youths have been apportioned among the yachts, as few as three aboard smaller craft and upwards of 20 on large boats, the yachts head out into the lake. The owner or one of his crew is in complete command during the cruise. While cruising about, the yacht's skipper gives each sailor a trick at the wheel, steering on various compass courses and in maneuvers. The skipper points out the effect of propeller and rudder on the helm, as well as wind and waves.

Cubs Will Play Brewers Tonight in Milwaukee

The schedule provides a respite for the Cubs both today and tomorrow, but it will not be all leisure. They'll ride up to Milwaukee late this afternoon for an electric light game with Charley Grimm's Brewers, who will have a chance to look at the pitching of Ed Hanyzewski, the South Bend strong boy.

Claude Passeau, the Cubs' pitching ace, who was hospitalized Friday night because of appendix complications, was released yesterday, but it may be several days before he has escaped the possibilities of an operation.

The Cubs didn't do very well on the field while entertaining the Dodgers, but the treasury department voiced no complaints. The attendance for the five games, according to the announcements, totaled 60,018.

Fight Marks Good Will Soccer Game in New York

BROWNS TRADE 2 PLAYERS FOR SUNDRA, CHARTAK

Philadelphia, Pa., June 7 (AP).—The St. Louis Browns, trying to finish in the first division for the first time in 13 years, tonight traded Outfielder Roy Cullenbine and Pitcher Bill Trotter to the Washington Senators for Outfielder Mike Chartak and Pitcher Steve Sundra. Donald L. Barnes, president of the Browns, said no cash was involved.

A week ago the Browns traded Pitcher Bob Harris and Catcher Bob Swift to the Athletics for Catcher Frank Hayes.

Chartak, a rookie, won some reputation as a power hitter in the New York Yankee farm organization. He was sold to Washington this spring and has been playing regularly. Sundra was a full-fledged Yankee hurler before going to the Senators.

Cullenbine once represented a $25,000 investment by the Browns. A star last year, he now is hitting only .194. Trotter has worked without distinction in relief rôles.

Angott-Montgomery Bout Postponed Until July 7

Philadelphia, Pa., June 7 (AP).—Lightweight Champion Sammy Angott's nontitle bout with Bob Montgomery, scheduled for June 15, was postponed today until July 7. Promoter Herman Taylor said the Pennsylvania athletic commission approved the postponement because Montgomery had contracted lumbago.

SOUTH SIDE WINS, 3-2, IN KELLY CUP SOCCER BATTLE

Matevich Scores Decisive Goal Against North.

BY OFFSIDE.

Pete Matevich's goal with three minutes left to play gave the South Side a 3 to 2 victory over the North Side in the annual Mayor Kelly soccer cup game sponsored by the International league in Winnemac stadium yesterday afternoon.

Matevich's three yard tip-in wiped out a second half rally by the North Siders which tied the score at 2-all on goals by Nels Dalquist. Nels' first score came in the second minute after a 15 yard run between the South full backs. A pushing foul was called on Joe Werier and Dalquist sank the penalty shot.

Matevich Comes Thru.

The South Siders protested the penalty and, after a prolonged argument, Steve Daniels was banished. The North Siders then held a one man advantage and attacked vigorously, but Matevich saved the South Siders by seizing a loose ball to elude the North defenders. He scored later.

Jerry Boehm's five yard boot put the South Side ahead, 1 to 0, after five minutes of the first period. Dalquist missed an easy tying chance from five yards out, then Steve Daniels converted a penalty shot to raise the South Side's advantage to 2 to 0.

Kuehl Hurt in First Half.

Ernie Kuehl collided with Emil Tomecek and was carried from the field in the first half. He was replaced by Freddy Granquist.

Linneas, champion of the International league A division, defeated the Jewish All-Stars, 3 to 0, in the preliminary. Lineups:

BELMONT PARK'S PROGRAM NETS $107,000 FOR FUND

New York, June 7 (AP).—War relief agencies benefited to the extent of $107,000 from Belmont Park's Army-Navy day racing program Saturday and there is a possibility the sum may be increased to almost $225,000.

Herbert Bayard Swope, chairman of the American Turf committee, said tonight that nearby Jamaica has promised to give $100,000 or to duplicate Belmont's gift.

Belmont's contribution might have been even larger except for a drop in attendance. Saturday's throng was 29,000, compared with 52,000 the preceding Saturday, which was Memorial day. The mutuel handle was $1,846,369, fourth largest of the year, compared with $2,176,071 the week before when a one-day betting mark was set.

On the basis of a $207,000 contribution, checks of $82,800 each will be turned over to the army and navy relief societies at a luncheon Wednesday with one of $41,400 going to USO.

BOLDEN PAIRED WITH JONES AT MARIGOLD CLUB

Joyce Meets Daugherty in 2d Feature Tonight.

Willie Joyce, Gary lightweight, and Nate Bolden, south side middleweight, two of the best boxers at their respective weights in the sport, will appear in two bouts of eight rounds featuring the show tonight in Marigold outdoor arena, Broadway and Grace street. Bolden is paired with Gib Jones of Cincinnati and Joyce is matched with Matt Daugherty of Milwaukee.

Their appearance, however, may be overshadowed by an eight round supporting match between Bill Petersen, Indiana Harbor heavyweight, and Vince Calzaretto. Calzaretto, light heavyweight of Palos Park, will be meeting a heavyweight for the second time. In an earlier fight with an opponent who outweighed him, Vince conquered Sam Morris in the north side club last Dec. 29. Petersen also holds a decision over Morris, scored in the Marigold arena seven months ago.

Petersen carried 208¼ pounds when he registered a fourth round knockout over William [Moose] Kennedy in the Midway arena on March 11. This is 33 pounds more than Calzaretto weighed in his conquest of Luther Brent last month.

In an additional contest of eight rounds on the card, Jimmy Pierce, West Allis, Wis., 155 pounder, will oppose Gene Luker, stablemate of Jones. Jones and Luker will be appearing in Chicago for the first time.

The Swedish Angel will face Ignacio Martinez in the windup bout of Promoter Fred Kohler's wrestling show tonight at White City, 63d street and South Park avenue. Blimp Levy, who weighs more than 500 pounds, will engage in an exhibition with Frank Welger.

Mello Bettina, Beacon, N. Y., heavyweight, who is after a championship fight with Joe Louis, will resume workouts in Trafton's gymnasium this afternoon for a 10 round bout against Altus Allen in Chicago Stadium Friday. The contest will serve as a tuneup for Bettina's anticipated meeting with Bob Pastor in this city next month.

A 10 round secondary feature on the Stadium program was closed yesterday and will bring together Carmelo Fenoy, lightweight of Barcelona, Spain, and Willie Joyce. Jackie Nichols, 135 pound Gary fighter, has been named as the opponent of Billy Murray of Bellaire, O., in another 10 round event.

Stanley Berg, Franklin park featherweight, and Roger McLain of Madison A. C. have been rematched for a five round bout on the second of a series of weekly amateur fight cards in Parichy stadium, Harlem avenue and Harrison street, Wednesday night.

VAULT PIT TO BE MOVED BY N. U. FOR WARMERDAM

Work will get under way at Northwestern today to transfer the pole vault pit from the east to the west side of the field so that spectators will have a better view of Cornelius Warmerdam when he attempts to break his own world record at the Big Ten-Pacific coast dual track meet Tuesday night, June 16.

K. L. Wilson, Northwestern university's athletic director, who obtained Warmerdam's consent to compete in the intersectional meet, said every effort will be made to prepare an ideal runway and jumping pit for the record breaking attempt.

Warmerdam, who is the only vaulter ever to break 15 feet, recently set a new world's mark of 15 feet 7¾ inches. His ambition is to attain 16 feet.

All 30 members of the Big Ten team which qualified for the meet will be present. The Western conference squad, which is led by Campbell Kane, Indiana's crack half miler and miler, and Bob Wright, Ohio State's brilliant hurdler, has hopes of gaining its first victory in six clashes with the Pacific coast aggregation.

BADGERS' POINT TOTAL BOOSTED IN CENTRAL MEET

Milwaukee, Wis., June 7 [Special].—A judge's error in recording the results of the discus throw, detected today, boosted the University of Wisconsin's winning point total in the Central Collegiate conference track meet last night in Marquette university stadium.

The Badgers, in winning the team title and the Knute K. Rockne memorial trophy, scored 28 7/10 points, instead of the 27 29/30 points with which they were credited after the meet.

71,910 WATCH AS YANKEES SPLIT DOUBLE HEADER

Indians Beat Bonham in 1st, 5-4; Then Lose, 13-1.

New York, June 7 (AP).—A throng of 71,910 paying customers, largest baseball crowd of the season, watched the Cleveland Indians push Ernie Bonham from the ranks of the undefeated pitchers today.

Bonham, winner of eight straight games, yielded a dozen hits in the first game, which the Indians won, 5 to 4, but the Yanks exploded a barrage of home runs to even accounts in the second, 13 to 1.

Al Smith, who had a hand in halting Joe DiMaggio's record breaking batting streak last year, was the big stumbling block in Bonham's path today. A three run Cleveland rally in the sixth inning tied the score and when Manager Lou Boudreau singled in the ninth and moved to second on a sacrifice, it was Smith who drove in the winning run with a single to register his third victory against five defeats.

Score Eight in Eighth.

The Yanks pounded three Indian pitchers for 12 hits and scored eight of their runs in the eighth inning, four of them on a home run by Joe Gordon with the bases loaded. Tom Henrich poled his second four bagger of the day in the third and Charlie Keller hit one with a mate aboard in the sixth. Both Gordon and Buddy Hassett connected safely in both contests, boosting their consecutive game hitting streaks to 24 and 19, respectively. Jeff Heath, Cleveland outfielder, was injured when he crashed into the wall while chasing Gordon's homer in the second game and was replaced by Bus Mills.

SENATORS, TIGERS DIVIDE.

Washington, D. C., June 7 (AP).—Detroit and Washington split a double header today, the Tigers taking the opener, 6 to 4, and the Senators winning, 8 to 0, in the second behind Walter Masterson's four hit hurling.

The Tigers pounded Early Wynn and Alejandro Carrasquel for 10 hits, including Pinky Higgins' homer, in the opener. Higgins and Roger Cramer each connected for three hits.

Masterson, pitching his first victory of the season against three losses, had the Tigers helpless most of the way. He allowed no more than one hit in any one inning. Only one of the hits, Bob Harris' triple in the fourth, went for an extra base.

Cramer's three hits in the opener brought him to within two of the select circle of players with a life time record of 2,000 safeties. The active American leaguers with that mark now are Charley Gehringer of the Tigers and Manager Joe Cronin of the Boston Red Sox. Cramer went hitless in the second game. Score:

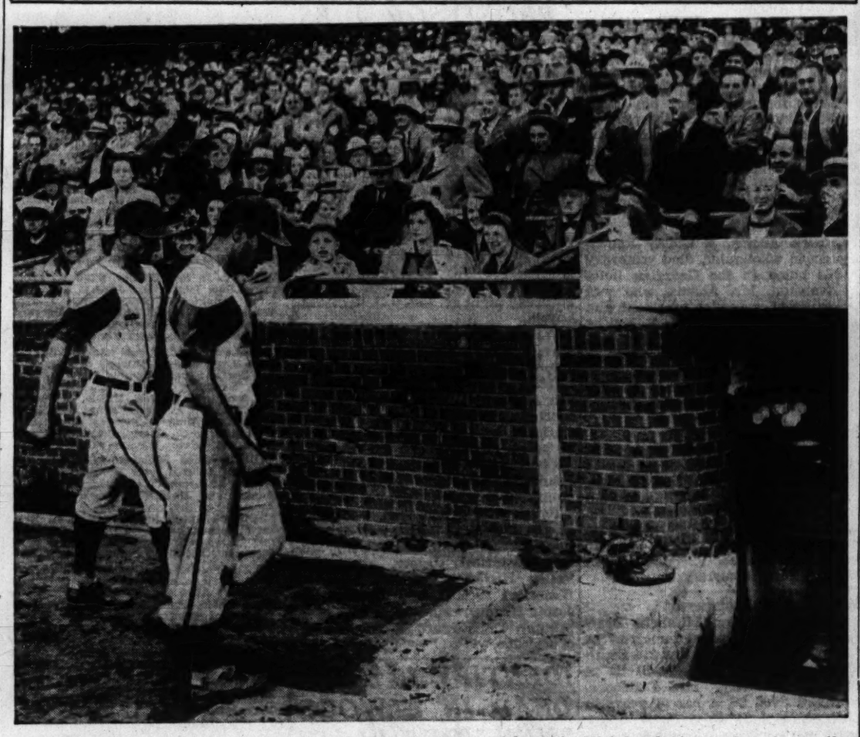
Heroes in the Midst of Dodgers' Double Triumph



Phil Cavarretta (right), and Len Merullo getting a big hand from the Wrigley field crowd as they walk toward the dugout in the sixth inning of yesterday's second game between the Cubs and Dodgers. Phil had just hit his third homer of the season, knocking out Pitcher Schoolboy Rowe after Merullo had singled. In the eighth, Phil drove in Merullo with a double which tied the score. Despite the hitting of Cavarretta, and Merullo, who had three singles, the Cubs lost, 4 to 3, in the 10th after dropping the first one, 8 to 4, to the National league champions.

After this, Wagner and Dietrich hooked up in a fine job of perfect pitching until the explosive seventh when Umpire Rommel tossed out the Chicago pitcher.

Rommel's Always Around.

In New York on May 3, with Dietrich pitching, Rommel gave a de luxe special ruling which nullified a tying run and the explosion then resulted in Dykes getting chased by Rommel. Dykes was fined but not suspended. Since May 3 the Sox have been given plenty of Rommel. It was inevitable that Jim's old roomie should be behind the plate before a big Sunday crowd, and particularly unfortunate that it was his turn to call balls and strikes for Dietrich.

After Ted Williams had doubled and Doerr had beaten out a bunt past Dietrich in the seventh, the Sox pitcher became enraged at Rommel's work on pitches to young Lupien. Bill went into a frenzy and Rommel, of course, showed the home folks his big thumb. After Dietrich had withdrawn, Coach Mule Haas, also a former teammate of Rommel on the A's, grew reminiscent and Mule, too, got the thumb.

So Newsome Wins Again.

Heber Newsome, who thrashed the White Sox seven times in seven tries last season, was the winning pitcher in the first game. For once in his life he had some anxious moments pitching against Chicago for Lyons singled in the eighth and rode in on Wally Moses' home run to give the White Sox a 2 to 1 lead. That was the count which Doerr and Tabor blotted out with their ninth inning homers.

Doerr's double had accounted for the 1 to 0 lead that Moses wiped out in the eighth. Bobby's drive scored Ted Williams in the second inning.

Dodgers Beat Cubs, 8-4, and 4-3, in Tenth

ter, filling the bases, Higbe turned his work over to Fireman Casey. Two of the waiting runners scored on infield outs and the other on a single by Nicholson.

SECOND GAME

The Dodgers were more gentle with Schmitz at the start than they had been with Olsen in the first game. They nicked him for only one hit but it was enough for a run because Reese had walked and been bunted to second by the time Reiser produced the single. The champions employed two hits for their fourth inning run. Reiser led with a single, went to third on a hit of similar length by Medwick and home while Walker was bouncing into a double play. One hit also was enough for the Dodgers' run in the sixth. Vaughan walked, stole second and came in on another single by Medwick.

Merullo singled in the sixth with one out and ran home ahead of Cavarretta on the latter's drive over the right field barrier. A pass to Foxx brought Rowe his dismissal orders. Nicholson singled off Rescuer Casey, and Russell filled the bases on a clout that Vaughan knocked down. Then Novikoff adjusted everything. He tapped in front of the plate. Owen just picked up the ball, jabbed it down on the plate and heaved it to Camilli for the double killing.

In the tying eighth, Merullo singled and scored on Cavarretta's double. Casey retired in behalf of Les Webber and Foxx beat out a bunt for his first hit as a Cub. So the Dodgers brought in French to take care of Nicholson, a job completed on a bounder to Camilli. Russell was purposely passed, loading the bases. Then Novikoff hit into his second double play, this time on a grounder to Reese.

GREAT LAKES IS 5-0 VICTOR OVER CAMP GRANT NINE

Harshaney Is Star of 19th Triumph in Row.

Camp Grant, Ill., June 7 [Special].—Great Lakes won its 19th consecutive baseball game this afternoon, shutting out Camp Grant, 5 to 0. This was the sailors' second triumph over the soldiers.

Sam Harshaney, former St. Louis Browns catcher drove in three runs with two triples and a double.

The soldiers made only six hits off James Renninger, and the big right hander was in trouble on only one occasion. In the second, Camp Grant filled the bases with one out, but a strikeout and a forceout choked off the rally.

80 MILLION COAL SUBSIDY PLAN OF BRITISH, REPORT

Miners to Be Guaranteed $17 Weekly Wage.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 7.—Indications that the government intends to meet the miners' claim for a guaranteed $17 weekly wage were seen today in an article by a political correspondent of the People saying the government contemplates a subsidy of between 20 and 30 million pounds [80 to 120 million dollars].

It can now be taken for granted, the correcpondent said, that the back of the coal and fuel problem has been broken. The government's program is said to be:

1. A decent living wage for miners.
2. No increase in the price of coal to the consumer.
3. Increased output of coal both for industrial and domestic use.

Pits to Be Reopened.

4. Less absenteeism.
5. Compulsion on mine owners to bring their best coal seams into use and not save them until after the war.
6. Reopening of a number of closed pits.

Altho from here on the "boss" in the coal industry will be the government, the mines will not be nationalized.

Lloyd George at Head.

The belief is expressed that with the new minister of fuel, Maj. Gwilym Lloyd George, at the head of the organization, coal affairs will be directed as efficiently as were the food affairs when he was second in command to Minister of Food Lord Woolton.

Some members of parliament and newspapers had suggested that the mine owners should dig into their pockets and find the funds with which to meet the miners' demands. The mine owners, however, argued that such a solution would have either one of two unpalatable consequences: The mine owners would see their profits eaten up if they were forced to pay the increase; or the price of coal would have to be put up. Therefore, the government has apparently decided to foot the bill.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and personally, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries.]

Miss D. F. writes: "My brother was recently inducted into the army. What shall we do about his sugar ration card? Can we use it?"

ANSWER: Your brother's ration card must be turned into the sugar rationing board, 228 North La Salle street. Include a note with the card as to the reason it is being turned in. Only one ration card is allowed to a person, and you would not be permitted to use your brother's.

H. G. asks: "In order to secure an occupational deferment, must the employer apply for same or may the registrant?"

ANSWER: The employer must make application for and fill in the affidavit form to support the claim for occupational deferment. If the registrant owns and operates his own business, he may fill in the form.

Mrs. R. K. writes: "My husband has had a chronic ailment for a number of years. A couple of months ago he was classified 4-F after a physical examination. Last week he was examined again by the draft board doctor who told the board my husband still suffered from the same ailment. He then received a card saying he was in 1-A. Will he still be in 4-F or 1-A?"

ANSWER: The army has asked selective service officials that the army physicians at the induction center be allowed to determine whether or not a registrant is physically fit for military service. This is the reason your husband has been given a 1-A classification, even tho the board physician found your husband's condition had not changed. If the army physicians find your husband's condition has not improved enough to warrant a 1-A or 1-B classification, he again will be reclassified to 4-F.

A. V. S. writes: "A friend of ours has been separated from his wife for three years and she is self supporting. He is wondering if he will have to send her part of his pay if he is inducted. It is important to know as he has other obligations."

ANSWER: It is not mandatory for men in military service to make allotments for their wives. The soldier may make an allotment to whomever he wishes.

Mrs. J. T. writes: "My son is overseas and has written home asking that his camera and films be sent him. Would it be all right if I mailed them to him?"

ANSWER: Your son evidently has ascertained that it is permissible for the men to have and use cameras. Therefore there is nothing to prevent your sending the camera and films so long as the package conforms with the weight and size regulations prescribed by postal authorities. There are no postal regulations forbidding the mailing of cameras.

RETAIL GROCERS PROTEST 'PRICE CEILING SQUEEZE'

Convention Delegates Say Many Face Bankruptcy.

The corner grocer's smile may turn a little sour in a few months unless Price Czar Leon Henderson does something about the price ceiling squeeze. This was indicated yesterday as hundreds of the nation's independent food retailers registered at the opening of the four day annual session of the National Association of Retail Grocers in the Palmer House.

Ann Groser as Molly Pitcher.

Meeting in an atmosphere of increasing pressure of wartime controls thru price regulation and rationing, the grocers were expected to draft resolutions calling for relief from federal decrees which some of them predict will force them into bankruptcy.

Protest Forced Losses.

"We're all for price controls to stave off inflation, but the price ceilings are forcing us to lose money on a great number of items which we cannot replace at the March ceiling prices," Erwin E. Seeck, president of the Cook County Food Dealers' association, said.

Seeck said many grocers will be forced to discontinue certain lines of canned foods, meats and other articles which they cannot sell at a profit under the present ceilings. Losses on some goods run as high as 10 per cent, he said.

"Grocers' shelves next fall may be bare of a good many canned vegetables and fruits and in some severe cases, stores will have to close down," Seeck predicted.

Gives Tea, Coffee Outlook.

A survey of tea, coffee, cocoa, and other imports was given by Gerrit Vander Hooning, War Production board food consultant and former president of the association. His observations based on late government data follow:

Coffee—Stocks on hand are sufficient for six and one-half to seven months' normal requirements, but are being stretched by a restriction on roasting to 75 per cent of 1941 output.

Tea—The supply will last about eight or nine months as a result of a 50 per cent restriction. However, additional supplies may come from Ceylon in November.

Cocoa—There is available a year's supply on the basis of a limitation to 75 per cent of 1941 use.

Rationing in Prospect.

Vander Hooning said rationing of coffee and tea may become necessary if voluntary purchasing limits of one-quarter pound of tea and one pound of coffee are not adequate in reducing consumption.

The monthly sale of 21 million dollars in war bonds and stamps is to be the goal of 200,000 independent grocers and 5,000 wholesalers thruout the country, it was stated. "Molly Pitcher" booths are to be set up in groceries for the purpose. Ann Groser represented the American Revolutionary war heroine in the first booth set up at the convention.

Approximately 3,000 grocers are expected to attend the meeting.

ENGLEWOOD HIGH YOUTH DROWNED AT DUNES BEACH

Harold Wayne Sims, 18 years old, an Englewood High school pupil who lived at 632 West 46th place, was drowned yesterday when he suffered cramps and was caught in the undertow at Waverly beach in the Indiana Dunes state park, near Michigan City.

Robert Wolf, 17, of 517 West 61st place, and Miss Gerry Dillon, 16, of 5420 South Wells street, tried in vain to drag him out of the treacherous undertow.

Sims, a former lifeguard, was one of a group of 21 high school pupils spending the week-end at the beach. After a picnic lunch on the sand he had walked into the water, according to the police, away from a patroled area.

DETECTIVE FIRES AFTER SHOT HITS HAT; WOUNDS MAN

When a bullet passed thru the crown of his hat as he attempted to break up a street fight in front of 430 East 43d street yesterday, Detective John McDonald, colored, of the Wabash station, believed it was aimed at him. He returned the fire and shot John Gary, also colored, 4734 St. Lawrence avenue, twice in his hips. McDonald and his partner, Atlas Saunders, were unable to find the man who fired the shot because he disappeared in the large crowd which had surrounded the fighters.

NEWS OF FINANCE AND COMMERCE

PLANE OUTPUT UP 85% SINCE PEARL HARBOR

Expect to Surpass Axis Total Soon.

Washington, D. C., June 7 (AP).—An increase of nearly 85 per cent in this country's military plane production in the six months since the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor was reported today by Col. John H. Jouett, president of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce.

Col. John H. Jouett.

In a statement approved for publication by the war department, Jouett predicted American production soon would exceed that of Germany, Italy, and Japan combined, including production being forced in the occupied countries.

Since the beginning of the European war in September, 1939, Jouett said, the American aircraft manufacturing industry had produced nearly 4 billion dollars worth of planes, engines, and propellers.

Many Changes in Design.

"Many striking advances in manufacturing technique, in design of new, hard hitting, farther ranging warplanes, in labor training, and other phases of the aircraft industry's all out war production effort, have been made since the treacherous Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor," Jouett said.

"The simple statement of the production increase does not tell the whole story by any means. Much of it cannot be told now. Some of it can. For instance, because the air forces' vastly expanded pilot training programs are proceeding according to plans, actual fighting planes are comprising an ever increasing percentage of total production, with trainers representing a correspondingly smaller percentage."

Engine Production Larger.

Jouett said that aircraft engine production had increased nearly 80 per cent since Pearl Harbor. The increase was due in part to the automotive companies' building of aircraft engines.

The number of women working in aircraft plants, performing almost every type of operation, has increased nearly 900 per cent since Dec. 7, he reported.

Use of Silver in War Work Strikes Snag

Washington, D. C., June 7 (AP).—Administration plans to use treasury silver stocks for war production purposes have struck a snag in refusal of the senate silver committee to approve proposed enabling legislation, it was learned today.

Committee members said they had declined to go along on a bill drafted by treasury experts because they believed the legislation would make it possible for the treasury to end the domestic silver purchase program. Under this program the treasury pays 71.11 cents an ounce—about double the world market level—for metal newly mined in the United States.

Made Plans to Use Silver.

In recent appearances before the committee, Donald M. Nelson, war production chieftain; Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, and Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones outlined plans to use about 53,000 tons of silver to substitute for copper in installations in war production plants.

Members of the committee, headed by Sen. Elmer Thomas [D., Okla.], agreed that the treasury could lend silver to the War Production board for its allocation in industrial uses so long as a sufficient amount of the metal was retained to back up to approximately 2 billion dollars in silver certificates in circulation.

May Prepare New Bill.

Committee members said they believed the bill which had been submitted to them would permit cancellation of the silver purchase program. They added there was some possibility that the committee could work out a bill of its own which would permit the use of silver for industrial purposes with the proviso that it be reclaimed later and that the purchase program not be disturbed in any way.

Some treasury silver already is being used in aluminum plants. This, however, was taken from the treasury's supply of so-called "free" metal, not being used to back monetary certificates.

INSURED BANKS' GROSS EARNINGS SET NEW RECORD

Washington, D. C., June 7 (AP).—The Federal Deposit Insurance corporation announced today that 1941 gross earnings and current operating expenses of insured commercial banks were higher than in any year of deposit insurance.

Gross earnings amounted to 1 billion 730 million dollars, or 99 millions above the previous high level of 1940. This increase, FDIC said, was partially offset by a 71 million rise in current operating expenses. Net earnings were 455 millions.

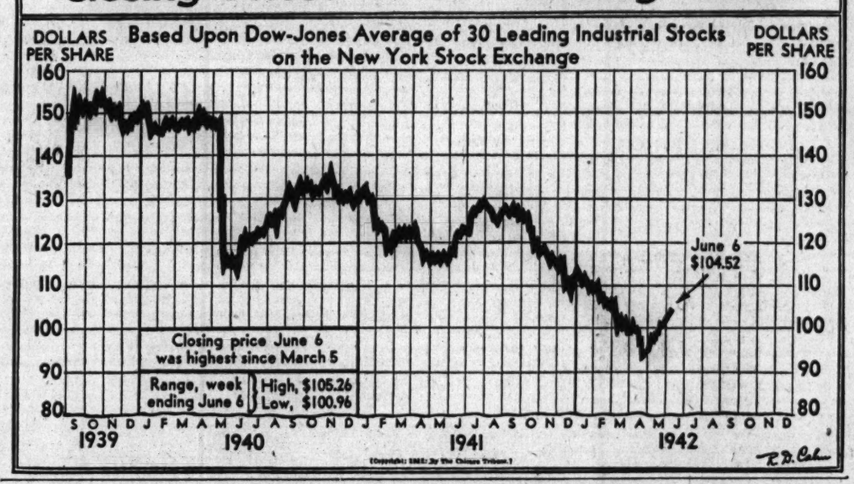
The average rate of income received on loans during 1941, the report added, declined to a new low of 4.27 per cent.

Closing Prices of 30 Leading Stocks



New Crop Key to Adequacy of Food Supplies

BY PHILIP WARDEN.

The ability of the United States to produce enough agricultural commodities to meet domestic wartime requirements and to ship substantial supplies to its allies during the next year depends to a large extent on this year's crops, grain men said yesterday.

If this country is to continue to ship millions of pounds of pork, beef, milk, butter, cheese, and eggs to England, Russia, and other recipients of lend-lease aid, farmers must have billions of bushels of corn, oats, barley, and other grains to feed live stock and poultry in the next few months, they declared.

Feed and Farm Use Heavy.

In normal years it takes about 83 per cent [about 2 billion bushels] or more of all the corn produced for feed and other farm use. An equal amount of the oats crop goes for feeding and 60 to 70 per cent of the barley. In addition, almost a third of the rye and wheat crops is used for live stock feed.

But farmers are feeding their farm animals more grain than ever before. Market experts say there are substantial surpluses of wheat and rye with the size of feed grain stocks questionable. They were the largest in two years and almost the largest on record when the United States entered the war.

Since that time many new factors have developed that are stepping up grain consumption. The largest pig crop on record is being fed to produce fatter and larger hogs than ever before. Shortages of automobiles, machinery, and gasoline are putting more horses to work. More and more grains are going to industry.

Crop Observers Report.

Crop observers reported last week as follows:

CORN—The crop probably will be larger than last year. Altho planting has been late in some areas, soil conditions are excellent. More hybrid seed has been planted than ever before and the crop should be better able to withstand hot weather and drouth conditions. However, all the crop is not planted and in some areas conditions are none too favorable.

OATS—A smaller crop than in 1941 is in prospect. Weather conditions have not been good.

BARLEY—Acreage is slightly larger than last year and the crop is in better condition. Private grain statisticians in their crop estimates last week predicted production of about 359 million bushels, the same as 1941.

LOWER DIVIDEND.

E. I. du Pont de Nemours recently reduced its common dividend from $1.25 to $1. Can you tell me how the company's earnings are affected by the reduction in income from its investment in General Motors?—K. C.

Answer: E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. total income in 1941 was $203,591,470, of which 37½ million dollars represented income from the company's investment in General Motors corporation. E. I. du Pont de Nemours owns 10 million of the 43,288,260 shares of General Motors common stock outstanding on which dividends totaling $3.75 per share were paid last year.

General Motors declared common dividends totaling $1 to date this year, compared with dividends totaling $1.75 in the same 1941 period. The return on 10 million shares in the first half of 1942 was, therefore, 7½ million dollars less than in the same period last year. It is not possible to forecast future dividends.

REDUCES HOLDINGS.

Was the North American common dividend declared in May and payable in shares of Detroit Edison capital stock a partial liquidating dividend? What will North American holdings in Detroit Edison amount to after payment of the dividend?—D. W.

Answer: North American company stated that the distribution in July would be charged on its books to earned surplus and that it would not constitute a partial liquidating dividend. Payment of the dividend will reduce North American's holdings in Detroit Edison to approximately 456,000 shares, or 7.18 per cent of outstanding shares.

INVESTMENT RECOMMENDATION.

Has the New York Stock exchange ever recommended an investment?—S. A. C.

Answer: The New York Stock exchange has recommended only two investments in its 150 year history. The first recommendation was of Liberty bonds in 1917; the second was of United States War Savings bonds.

HOLDING COMPANY.

Is International Telephone and Telegraph a holding or operating company? How much of the company's earnings normally are derived from European holdings?—F. B.

Answer: International Telephone and Telegraph corporation is a holding company. About half the annual earnings in normal time are derived from holdings in Europe.

Warns of High Tax Threat to Arms Output

The National Industrial Conference board, a private research agency, warned yesterday that an excess profits tax of 90 to 100 per cent, with corporations assuming the risks of postwar adjustments, may have a "quite serious" effect on war production.

The board discussed the excess profits tax question, pending before congress, in a comparative analysis of British and United States taxes on income. In contrast with the situation in this country, England "virtually assumes both wartime and postwar risks up to the amount of excess profits taxes paid," the board said.

The board observed that profits act as incentives to increased production and risks act as restrictive influences.

Risk Factor Ignored.

Altho the profit motive usually is considered in formulating tax policies, "it is unfortunately true that American tax legislation, and proposals that are being seriously considered, have given scant attention to the restrictive effects of risks," the board said.

"Excess profits do not have the time limitations in Great Britain that they do in the United States. Excess profits exist only if the average profits over the entire war and postwar period, after deduction of losses, exceed the annual rate of the standard period. Investments in productive activities therefore can be made with assurance they can be paid for by wartime profits if postwar losses destroy investment values."

Firm Must Stand Losses.

In the United States, the board said, the corporation must stand the losses in undepreciated equipment, inventory price declines, conversion of plants and equipment, and reëstablishment of civilian markets.

"All these costs and losses may be concentrated in one or a few postwar years, during which there may be no war profits to offset them," the board said. "Under a 90 to 100 per cent excess profits tax rate, the government takes virtually all the profits on increased production, and enterprise stands practically all the risk."

This can be corrected, according to the board, by adopting British procedure of carrying postwar losses back to offset war profits and of providing tax refunds on the basis of postwar losses.

CHICAGO STOCK EXCHANGE CUTS YEAR'S DEFICIT

The Chicago Stock Exchange reported yesterday that in the fiscal year ended April 30, it reduced its deficit to $86,734 from $104,345 in the preceding year. Operating loss was $86,702, compared with $97,846 for the preceding period.

Net worth of the general fund at the close of the year was $1,408,198, against $1,494,932 a year earlier. There was no change in the number of memberships outstanding.

Expenses were $181,471, compared with $197,472 for the preceding period. Total income declined to a new low of $95,737.

Rock-Ola Plants Converted for War Goods Production

Rock-Ola Manufacturing corporation announced yesterday that it had completed conversion of one of its plants for war work and was recruiting new unskilled and skilled workers, a large proportion of them women. David C. Rockola, president of the company, said the United States employment service is assisting in hiring the workers for whom training classes are being established.

TODD SHIPYARDS EARNS $21.67 PER SHARE IN YEAR

The Todd Shipyards corporation reported yesterday for the fiscal year ended March 31, a net income of $4,442,956, including a nonrecurring item of $1,438,400. This was equivalent to $21.67 a share on the common stock, compared with $2,981,049, or $14.52 a share, in the preceding year. Business amounted to $91,757,650, compared with $40,760,629 in the preceding year.

The report said that for reasons of national security, details of plant expansion and improvements, rearrangements of facilities and general operations were omitted from the report.

Electric Power and Light Output Sets New Record

The Electric Power and Light corporation, in its annual report, disclosed yesterday a balance of $2,767,334 was carried to consolidated earned surplus in 1941, compared with $1,283,385 in 1940. Joe H. Gill, president, said new records were established by the system in electricity output, natural gas sales, and passenger transportation.

DAY by DAY on the FARM & GAIL COMPTON

Haying Time Arrives.

June 7, 1942.

HAYING TIME has come again and as usual it arrived suddenly and unexpectedly. Only a week ago the men were looking over the fields of alfalfa and clover trying to estimate when they would be ready. At that time it seemed as if the forage had a lot of growing ahead of it before it would be ready to cut.

The other day the men noticed that the clover blossoms were appearing rapidly, and spurred on by several days of hot weather the blooms opened quickly and the fields were almost in full bloom before the haying machinery could be unlimbered.

The clover is in a perfect stage to go into the silo. It is almost completely in bloom and in the stage of growth when it carries the best balance between fiber and protein for ensiling. Recent experimental tests have proven that clover should not be cut later than full bloom. The yield is not increased significantly when it is allowed to stand longer and the yield of the second crop is reduced.

Alfalfa Nearly Ripe.

The alfalfa fields are nearing the cutting stage and the hay will oe ready for the silo this week. A day or so of hot weather and the fields will be from half to three quarters in bloom and at the proper stage for cutting.

The farm workers find the work is piling up rapidly now. They have finally been able to get into the corn fields with the cultivators and are having a struggle beating the weeds before they harm the corn. The tractor and a horse drawn cultivator are busy every day at this job. However, the hay fields also need attention and the men will either have to sacrifice time on the corn to get the hay started, or let the hay wait on the corn. Neither course is satisfactory but there is a shortage of labor.

Molasses to Be Used.

While it lasts, the farm manager will use molasses to preserve his legume silage. Fortunately, he ordered about 10 tons of it early in the year and was able to get delivery. Because of the war there is a shortage of the molasses and many farmers will have to use different methods this year to preserve their legumes.

The molasses will be applied at the rate of from 70 to 100 pounds for every ton of silage. When the molasses runs out the manager will use from 150 to 200 pounds of ground corn to each ton of legumes. The ground corn will add enough extra sugar to form the acids necessary to keep the silage.

Later in the hay season, green corn may be used instead of ground corn. Ground wheat, oats, and barley also can be used. If, however, the hay is properly wilted in the field it can be ensiled without the use of a preservative. Experiments show that when the forage has no more than 68 per cent of moisture it will keep satisfactorily in the silo. On a good drying day, hay left for two or two and a half hours in the swath will reduce its moisture content to about 68 per cent.

ARMY IS BUYING TOO MUCH, SAY BUSINESS MEN

[Copyright: 1942: By the New York Times.]

New York, June 7.—In its campaign to equip the rapidly growing military forces, the army is buying enough personal equipment to cover the equivalent normal peacetime needs of the 50 million men betwee nthe ages of 16 and 64 in this country, an analysis of government orders disclosed today.

This is the chief reason why civilian needs in textiles and shoes have been or will be squeezed so sharply. The army procurement policy is one of the reasons why the gap between available goods and spendable income is expected to reach 17 billion dollars this year. The startling figures on army purchases are bringing charges from business men that the military services are overbuying and that as a result the civilian economy is being penalized unnecessarily. For fear of being considered unpatriotic, these business men are unwilling to be quoted.

Charges of Business Men.

1. The military services usually double or treble their estimated requirements just to be on the safe side.

2. The army's pipe-line system of attempting to have complete replacement equipment at three or four points all the way back to the factory is an uneconomical tie-up of inventory, and a speedier method of distribution and turnover should be sought.

3. Altho the army's attitude toward specification changes has been liberalized, there is still room for great improvement.

In rebuttal, the army gives these reasons to justify its purchases:

1. While needs of each individual soldier seem high, the average civilian has no conception of how rapidly, particularly in wartime, soldiers wear out personal equipment, either thru actual use, carelessness or occasions when they are just forced to abandon it.

Bases Require Large Stocks.

2. In this war, the large number of foreign bases require huge stocks of equipment, possibly out of proportion to the number of men quartered there, but necessary for all exigencies.

3. Orders placed by the army frequently cover deliveries one year ahead, with many of them on a 270-day basis.

4. The pipe-line system requires that in addition to the original issue to a man, there must be immediate replacement on hand in the camp or en route, in the distributing depot, in the process of manufacture, and on order.

Shoes are a case in point. The army estimates that one soldier ties up ten pairs of shoes annually on the following basis: Three for original equipment, two to replace those worn out during the year, one in the camp, one in the depot, one being manufactured, and one to two on order.

Needs Are Compared.

The army and navy needs on various items compare with normal civilian peacetime requirements as follows: Wool [scoured basis] for army, 300,000,000 pounds, against 290,000,000 pounds for civilians; bed sheets for army and navy, 11,000,000 dozen against 8,650,000 dozen; towels for army and navy, 24,110,000 dozen against 30,000,000 dozen, and woven shorts, 32,000,000 against 10,000,000 dozen. Service figures for bed sheets, towels and shorts are for the year to date.

These give some conception of the magnitude of the army buying, and other instances can be cited. For example, up to October of last year, the army had bought 61,700,000 yards of 18-ounce serge, enough to make 20,000,000 uniforms, consisting of coat and trousers. Last year, for the male civilians of this country, only 23,000,000 all or part wool suits were produced.
